Daley Delegates

CHICAGO (AP) — A Circuit Court judge ruled Thursday that challengers to Mayor Richard J. Daley and 53 other uncommitted delegates to the Democratic National Convention cannot be seated in place of the Daley group.

Judge Donald J. O'Brien issued a temporary restraining order which will be in effect until July 5.

The Democratic party Credentials Committee is scheduled to rule Friday in Washington on the challenge brought by independent Democrats.

Lawyers for Alderman Paul Wigoda, one of the challenged delegates and a close aide to Daley, obtained the Circuit Court ruling after the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned a lower-court ruling preventing Wigoda from seeking the restraining order.

A three-judge panel of the federal appeals court reversed the order injunction issued two weeks ago by Judge Frank J. McGarr of U.S. District Court.

Mayor Daley said, "Everybody knew the McGarr decision wouldn't stand up."

He added that, if the challenge were successful, "it will be the first time in the history of any party that elected delegates were removed."

Food Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon extended price controls Thursday to fresh fruits, vegetables, eggs and seafood after the first sale by the producer. The move was expected to have little immediate effect on soaring food costs.

In removing the current exemption on raw agricultural products at all levels except the farm, the President sought to put the pressure of controls on profit margins and price markups on fruits, vegetables and seafood sold primarily at wholesale and retail.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, said Nixon's action "cannot drive food prices down. Only increased supply or reduced demand could do that."

Last week, Nixon decided to lift meat import quotas for the remainder of this year in order to increase beef and pork supplies and put downward pressure on the retail cost of meat.

Nixon backed off from extending controls to the farm, an action that would require many additional price commission employees and could, according to administration economists, cut off or sharply reduce the supply of meat and other fresh foods.

As for the impact on inflation, the items put under price controls Thursday make up about 2.5 per cent of the government's Cost of Living Index. The items comprise about 11 per cent of the food component of the index, or about $12 billion worth of transactions.

The effect of the action is to try to put wholesalers and retailers under the same profit restraints and markup provisions that apply to processors. The retail cost of meat is covered by controls.

The Price Commission's regulations limit wholesalers and retailers to price increases that can be justified by allowable costs. In addition, they must not exceed profit margin rules which hold them to a rate of profit no better than the rate of the best two out of the last three years.

For consumers, the action means that items such as eggs, tomatoes, lettuce, corn, and other vegetables sold at produce counters are subject to controls.

Raw seafood products, such as fresh fish or oysters, are covered for the first time even if they have been cleaned.

But still exempt are live animals and produce sold by the farmer.

Fischer—Spassky

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer has made a last-minute demand for more money to lay in the world chess championship against Russian Boris Spassky, informed sources said Thursday.

They reported that the 29-year-old American challenger has sent an ultimatum to the Iceland Chess Federation "two or three days ago," saying he would not show up unless he got 30 per cent of the gate receipts on top of the unprecendented sums already guaranteed.

Skyjacking Suspect

DETROIT (AP) — Martin J. McNally, of Wyandotte, Mich., was held without bond in Detroit Thursday on charges stemming from last week's $502,000 skyjacking of an American Airlines 727 jet.

McNally, 28, described by neighbors as a quiet and clean cut young man, was charged with violation of the federal air piracy statute and appeared before a federal magistrate in Detroit.

There will be a removal hearing in Detroit on July 11 to decide if McNally, an unemployed service station attendant, will be sent to St. Louis.

U.S. Magistrate Paul Kominas declined to set bond at Thursday morning's appearance and a bond hearing was set before a U.S. District Court judge.

Meanwhile, federal authorities were investigating the presence of a man local police identified as Patrick C. McNally, also of Wyandotte, Michigan, near Peru, Ind., on Saturday night, the night after the skyjacker jumped from the aircraft.

The skyjacker had taken over the jetliner shortly after it left St. Louis Friday night en route to Tulsa, Okla. with 94 persons aboard.

He forced a landing at St. Louis where airline officials said the man armed with a sub-machine gun was given $502,000 and two parachutes. He released most of the plane's passengers and changed planes after a car smashed into the first airliner.

Supreme Court Votes 5-4

Death Penalty Not Legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 5 to 4 vote, the Supreme Court Thursday ruled the death penalty to be illegal as it is generally used in the United States today.

All nine justices filed separate and sometimes conflicting or ambiguous opinions. One of them, Lewis F. Powell Jr., said the ruling removed the death sentences from some 600 prisoners and nullifies the capital punishment laws of 39 states.

Specifically set aside by the decision and a series of follow-up orders were 128 death sentences.

But there were suggestions in the opinions, mostly by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Potter Stewart, that it would be possible for state legislatures and Congress to enact a constitutional death-penalty law.

Evidently, in order to be valid such a law would have to be applied uniformly and not leave it to juries to pick and choose which convicted defendants should live and which should die.

All four dissenters were appointees of President Nixon.

In a second decision the court held 5 to 4 that aides of a member of Congress—and even the congressman himself—may be forced to testify before a grand jury about anything except their "legislative acts."

The majority opinion, by Justice Byron R. White, permits a federal grand jury in Boston to go ahead with an inquiry into arrangements made by the office of Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, for publication of the Pentagon Papers by Beacon Press.

Gravel said in a statement: "Today's decision may be the death-knell for an informed and vital Congress in this nation."

Nixon Reveals Peace Talks To Be Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Thursday night the United States and North Vietnam have agreed to resume the Paris peace talks.

He said the administration agreed to resume the suspended Vietnam negotiations Thursday July 13 "on the assumption that the North Vietnamese are prepared to negotiate in a constructive and serious way."

Nixon apparently mispoke himself as to the date of the resumption. He said the talks would be renewed on April 13, but evidently meant July 13, a Thursday, and the normal meeting day before the negotiations were broken off in April.

And a few minutes later he spoke of a July resumption.

"I've already indicated that we will be returning to negotiations in July," Nixon told a nationally televised and broadcast news conference. "That is the important area to watch."

At the outset of his first broadcast news conference in more than a year, Nixon was asked whether he could say that the war in Vietnam will be ended by next Jan. 20, when his first term expires.

He recited the record of troop withdrawals, reduced U.S. casualties and spending, and administration peace offers.

Nixon said the only thing the administration has not done is to agree to the imposition of a Communist government in Saigon, which he said would "reward aggression...and would dishonor the United States of America."

With that, he told of the planned renewal of the Paris talks. "We will return on the assumption that the North Vietnamese are prepared to negotiate in a constructive and a serious way," Nixon said.

He said if that is the case, and negotiations move forward, the war can be ended "and it can be ended well before Jan. 20."

If they don't negotiate meaningfully the United States would continue measures, including mining, to hold leverage for negotiations and protect remaining men.

"You get something from them only when you have something they want from you," he said.

Nixon said keeping up the pressure by bombing activity, mining and the like would be the only way to give incentive for release of prisoners of war. Nixon said 15,000 French were never accounted for after the French Indochinese war and he would never allow that to happen to the American POWs.

Nixon was asked when he thought the South Vietnamese (Turn To Page Eleven)

WASHINGTON: The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Thursday the death penalty is unconstitutional. But for all practical purposes, the United States abolished the death penalty a long time ago, the last person actually executed in the U.S. being Luis G. Saigon Forces Push Northward In Drive

SAIGON (AP) — A 20,000-man South Vietnamese task force pushing northward in a drive to recapture enemy-held Quang Tri Province continued to encounter moderate resistance Thursday in the second day of the operation.

But government officers and senior U.S. advisers seemed optimistic. One American said the counteroffensive was going better than anticipated. "We thought it would be a damn tough nut," he said. The North Vietnamese have had almost two months to consolidate their hold on South Vietnam's northernmost province, which they captured May 1.

Saigon military spokesmen reported more than 160 North Vietnamese killed, and government losses of six dead and 34 wounded, in the first two days of the push up Highway 1. Three enemy tanks were destroyed and one was captured after the North Vietnamese crew abandoned it with the engine running, the spokesmen added. A long-range artillery gun, three howitzers and seven anti-aircraft guns also were reported captured.

More than 1,000 more South Vietnamese marines were committed to the drive Thursday in two combat assaults aboard U.S. helicopters. With the fresh force a rough east-southwest arc between 6 and 12 miles away from Quang Tri City, the provincial capital.

One unverified field report said the South Vietnamese had retaken Hai Lang, a district town on Highway 1 about six miles southeast of Quang Tri City. Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported civilian refugees streaming south from the village.

Government paratroopers liberated another town near Quang Tri, Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported. The village of Hai Xuan, six miles south of the provincial capital, had been occupied by the enemy for more than two months but government troops encountered virtually no resistance when they entered Thursday.

DETROIT: An FBI agent firmly guides 28-year-old Martin McNally of Wyandotte, Mich., into the back seat of a car for his ride to arraignment at the Federal Building in downtown Detroit Thursday. McNally, a jobless Navy veteran, was arrested late Wednesday in Wyandotte in connection with the June 22 $502,000 hijacking of an American Airlines jetliner en route from St. Louis, Mo., to Tulsa, Okla. After receiving the money, he parachuted out over Peru, Indiana. (UPI Telephoto)

Credentials Committee Deals McGovern Blow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. George McGovern, trembling with anger, said Thursday he will not support the Democratic ticket if his own quest is denied and the presidential nomination goes to a rival who helped strip him of 151 California delegates.

His challengers took new hope for their campaigns to overtake the South Dakota senator.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, whose allies led the California challenge, declared his prospects "have markedly improved."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's campaign manager said his man is "back in the race, very strong." Muskie smiled and said the Democratic National Convention will be more interesting now.

The political storm broke over the verdict of the Democratic Credentials Committee, which voted 72 to 66 to take from McGovern more than half the delegates he won by capturing the California presidential primary on June 6.

The national convention itself will make the final decision.

The Credentials Committee left McGovern with 120 California delegates, awarded 108 to Humphrey for his second place finish, and apportioned the balance among the other primary entrants.

The primary had been waged as a winner-take-all contest, for the entire 271-vote delegation. But Humphrey forces challenged that system—after their candidate lost—on grounds it violated party reform requirements.

Reform was the cloak, but political muscle the real issue, as the Credentials Committee dealt a severe setback to the McGovern campaign.

McGovern claimed he would still win the nomination, and on the first ballot.

But if the California verdict is upheld in the convention, first ballot nomination appears beyond his reach.

McGovern said he was confident the convention would overturn the Credentials Committee decision. His challengers said they were confident it would be upheld.

"I couldn't possibly support a convention that would sustain this kind of shabby, back-room dealing," the enraged McGovern told newsmen in a reception room just off the Senate floor. "I wouldn't have any part of any convention nominee who would support this."

The Associated Press count of delegate strength after the California decision showed McGovern with 1,216.9 of the 1,509 it will take to win nomination.

Humphrey had 497.05 votes, Gov. George C. Wallace 384, Muskie 230.05. There were 512.4 uncommitted delegates.

The state delegations on the committee split along candidate lines, with the South going heavily against McGovern.

Ironically, California members of the committee refused to demand that they receive any vote on the question on grounds that four of their 10 members—the proportion of the McGovern vote—were not subject to the challenge.

Phillip Isenberg, spokesman for the California group and a city councilman from Sacramento, said in an interview the California members did not act because it would have increased the acrimony already present in the proceedings.

WASHINGTON: The Democratic credentials committee Thursday voted 72-66 to strip Sen. George McGovern of 151 California delegates. It was a stunning blow to the senator's bid for a first ballot nomination at the Democratic National Convention. The vote was a victory for anti-McGovern forces led by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who gained 106 votes. The credentials committee vote was brought about by a challenge to the state's winner take all primary system. Baseball And Antitrust

After the recent Supreme Court ruling the situation remains essentially what it has been since the Federal Baseball ruling in 1922: organized baseball is not subject to antitrust laws. One gets the impression, however, that the court does not really approve, and would like to see something done about the matter. Once again it has urged Congress to act, and this should now be done.

As early as 1953, in the Toolson case, the high court showed its distaste for the exemption of baseball. By then it was clear that baseball was as much a business as a sport. But in Toolson the court said in effect that the situation should be allowed to remain as it was because baseball had for 30 years been allowed to assume that its immunity was assured.

The Lottery Come-On

The government of the state of New York says to the people: More money is needed for a lot of worthy things—education, and such. And the government says: Instead of asking for more taxes we're going to make it easy on you, and fun besides! That is basically the come-on for the state lottery.

The state has now come up with a dandy new gimmick to celebrate five years of life with the lottery. It offers a "summer special" whereby the folks can plunk down three bucks in exchange for two chances at a grand prize

In the most recent case, Curt Flood and the Major League Players Association challenged baseball's reserve system. Under this arrangement, thanks in part to the antitrust exemption, players can be moved about like chessmen at the behest of the owners. The court found against Flood, but in the opinion written by Justice Harry A. Blackmun the ball was pitched to Congress again.

"If there is any inconsistency of illogic in all this," Justice Blackmun wrote, "it is an inconsistency and illogic of long standing that is to be remedied by the Congress and not by this court." Concurring, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger declared that "it is time the Congress acted to solve this problem." The court is right: Congress should end its long failure to deal with the matter.

of $50,000 a year for life and a guarantee of at least a million to the winner.

It sounds enticing; there's no denying that. The Lottery Commission is working hard to make it sound like the millennium. Says one of the flood of ads: "Buy this ticket that could change your life forever." Says another: "The grand prize is all the money you'll ever need."

It's a way to raise money for government. But it's a shoddy, false way, and no fit substitute for honest taxation to do what needs doing.

In Littering, Results Count

"Litterbug" sounds cute, but there's nothing in the least cute about the litterbug. He—or she, for the female of the species is as deadly as the male—is rather a nasty creature who brings to mind the bird that fouls its own nest.

More or less innocent carelessness plays a part in littering, granted. Is carelessness much of an excuse? We think not. A park or picnic ground or roadside blighted with people residue—scraps of paper, garbage, throwaway cups and cans and bottles—is no less so because the litterers were not vicious nor nasty, but simply careless. The results are the same.

Soviet Pact: Look What Is Left Out

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — What was omitted from the U.S.-Soviet arms agreement may be more significant than what was agreed on.

The omissions give strong clues as to what line Moscow will push in the continuing arms race.

The agreements are likely to nudge the Soviet Union toward even more vigorous meddling in Latin America, South and Southeast Asia and the Mediterranean in an attempt to find added bases for the Russian submarine and surface fleets.

Bases were not controlled by the agreement and it became apparent in the discussions that Russian strategists are convinced the American worldwide system of bases gives Washington undue advantage in sea-based missile and surface warfare.

The Russian intervention worldwide undoubtedly will be aimed both at gaining bases for their own fleets and in inducing countries allied with the United States to deny their harbors to American nuclear submarines and their land to American nuclear carrying planes.

The agreements are expected also to push the Russians toward even greater work on cruise missiles, low-flying guided missiles which can evade most radar defenses. These can be fired from surface ships and submarines. The Soviet Union already has made considerable progress on very short range cruise missiles such as the Styx.

Cruise missiles known to this reporter as being developed by any country will have a potential range of a few miles to a hundred or so. The prospect, however, is that within a decade a 1,000-mile version might become practical.

With presently known defense techniques, such missiles would make Washington almost defenseless, even with the 100-missile ABM system now proposed. For, as noted above, the cruise missiles would fly in too low for radar to give sufficient warning.

The cruise missile is not limited by the agreements. Unless adapted to air use by bombers which could hide like submarines, it would give the Russians a major advantage in attacking mainland targets. For, with its limited range, the projected 1,000-mile cruise missile fired from a submarine could be highly effective against the U.S. east and west coast.

But by contrast, only a small percentage of the Russian people and Russian industry are sufficiently close to stretches of sea wide enough to provide sufficient hiding places for the missile-firing submarines.

The major weakness of the agreements probably is that, other than for the limited ABM systems allowed near each capital, they make no provision for the protection of either country's command, control and communications systems — the means by which a head of government keeps in contact and control.

Protection of command, control and communications is essential not only to enable a country to feel assured it can successfully protect itself in a war, but equally essential in bringing a war to a quick end if the outbreak is accidental.

But to end the war, once started, both need to be able to control their forces.

This omission contrasts sharply with what this reporter regards as the most significant item actually written into the agreements — guaranteed protection for the spy satellites of both nations. If this part of the bargain is adhered to, it should lessen greatly the chances for both accidental and deliberate war.

The more thoroughly we know what the Soviet Union is doing, and the more certain they are that we know exactly what they are doing, the less likelihood of Soviet accidents or chance-taking.

Why this same protection was not provided for command, control and communications is not at all clear.

Ann Landers: Comparisons For Anyone Considering Oldest Profession

Dear Ann: I was fascinated by that very candid letter from the woman who wanted to know if prostitution is legal in Nevada. I was surprised to learn that it is, in some counties.

Since the woman who wrote did so in good faith and you answered her graciously, I'd like to make some comparisons that might be helpful to anyone who is considering the oldest profession.

Like a doctor, she will be on call 24 hours a day.

Like a ballplayer, her productivity will be limited to a few years.

Like an insurance salesman, she will have to split her commission with an agent.

Like a mailman, she will be expected to work regardless of the weather.

I'll bet your readers could add to the list and come up with some dillies. Will you print them if they do? — Chicago

Dear Chic: Probably not. But thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: There's another side of the story beside the one expressed by the young widow who married a man with three "impossible brats."

Ten years ago I married a widower with five children. I had two of my own. My husband's brood ranged from 14 to six. When I married their father, these children were stealing, smoking pot and having trouble with teachers and neighbors. They were rebellious and disrespectful. Deep down I knew why. They had been deprived of a mother for most of their lives and they were bitter and undisciplined.

Within a week after I married and moved into our new home with my two youngsters, one of my stepdaughters told me she hated me because I had married her father "for his money." Another stepdaughter broke my little boy's nose. The ten-year-old stole $15 from my purse. The six-year-old set fire to the garage.

I was determined to conquer the situation with love and understanding. The first thing I did was call a family meeting and laydown rules. The children acted mad but they really loved it. No one had ever set limits for them and they viewed my toughness as a sign that I cared. From then on it was a matter of keeping my word, serving as referee, counselor and above all, a loving presence.

Today these children are good citizens, good students, and I am immensely proud of them. My husband calls me the Miracle Worker. I say the change in their lives was no miracle, it was the natural by-product of love. — Cleveland Mom

Dear Mom: What can I say — except — BEAUTIFUL!

Dear Ann Landers: I rarely miss your column but apparently I missed one recently because I read a follow-up letter which threw me.

It seems a young man from Louisville wanted additional information about males who could not urinate in public. Will you please tell me why anyone would want to do a thing like that? In fact such an act would probably get a person arrested where I come from. Straighten me out, Ann. — Houston Suburbanite

Dear Suburbanite: The letter you missed was from a young fellow who was being drafted. He confessed to a longtime psychological block which prevented him from urinating in the presence of others. He was referring to public REST ROOMS, not streets. When I published his letter I was staggered by the hundreds of letters from men who said they, too, had the problem. It is called a bashful kidney. I was deluged with solutions.

The most practical one was to use a stall with a door and privacy.

Union but heretofore seemingly immune to arrest.

He is Pyotr I. Yakir whose immunity has been traced to his father, Gen. Iona E. Yakir, a military leader executed under Stalin on false charges of espionage and treason.

Included in the campaign of suppression have been newspaper attacks on official American visitors accused of various misdeeds, including too close contacts with Soviet Jews.

Two Other Developments
In the light of these events two other developments are worth watching.

One is the appearance on schedule of No. 25 of the Chronicle of Current Events, an underground publication which has been appearing regularly since 1968.

It is written in dry, unemotional language and deals with various developments in the civil rights movement.

Among other things the latest issue tells of an "Estonian national front" which seeks Estonian self-determination. Estonia is a former independent nation and now is a republic of the Soviet Union.

Issue No. 3 of the Chronicle came out on Aug. 31, 1968, 10 days after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. It told of opposition with the prestigious Academies of Soviet Sciences to the invasion.

Issue No. 10 came out Oct. 31, 1969. It told of a man who burned himself fatally in front of a Lenin monument in Leningrad. It also told of action against three senior officers of the Baltic submarine fleet. They were accused of founding a "Union for the Struggle for Political Rights."

Another development of the same nature consisted of a 1,500-word mimeographed pamphlet reportedly stuffed recently into 1,000 Moscow mail boxes.

A Contrast

In contrast to the colorless wording of the Chronicle, this one called on workers to strike and to demonstrate for better living conditions. It said:

"Respected citizens! Fight for your rights, for a better life... If we won't fight, we will turn more and more into the slaves of the Communist Party's upper crust, into draft animals."

It said it is "the absence of these rights that enables the Kremloinites secretly and openly and without pity to rob and oppress our people."

Observers in Moscow found the pamphlet not wholly convincing since some of its statements either were inaccurate or exaggerated. Among the dissidents there are other factors that should be noted. Most do not object to communism as such but rather demand rights already granted by the Soviet constitution such as freedom of speech.

Also, their numbers are believed comparatively small. Among the workers there is little political sentiment.

But, however small, their numbers are enough to worry the Kremlin.

She was born in Morgan county, Dec. 8, 1902, daughter of Joseph and Margaret McLeod Zillion. She married Raymond Beard on March 14, 1923.

Survivors include her husband, Raymond, one daughter, Lois, wife of Thomas Baird of Lake Petersburg, three sons, Glenn and Max, both of Beardstown, and James of Arenzville.

There are 10 grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Three sisters, Mrs. Ben Herbert of Long Grove, Iowa, Mrs. Vencil Mustang of San Jose, Mrs. Noel Clarke of Beardstown, and five brothers, James Zillion of Arenzville, William Zillion of Carlville, Hugh Zillion of San Jose, and Walter and Joseph Zillion of Tallula, also survive.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Arenzville United Methodist church of which the deceased was a member. The Rev. Bill Bailey will officiate. The body will be taken to the church one hour before services. Burial will be in Arenzville East cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the Williamson Funeral Home here from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

Friends wishing to do so may consider contributions to the Arenzville United Methodist church Memorial Fund.

WALKING VISITORS — The Maxwell family of Charlotte, North Carolina, are visiting in Jacksonville at the home of Russ Verner but decided to walk the Lincoln-Douglas Heritage Trail to see more of the city. Dad and the two boys followed the map and viewed the points of interest Wednesday. Shown from left: Scott, 15, a Star scout; Haines Maxwell, and Haines, Jr., 16, an Explorer scout. The two scouts will receive one of the patches for use on their uniforms.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

FRIDAY, JUNE 30 — Born today, you are a combination truth-seeker and dreamer. Nor is this combination as odd as it might seem, for it usually takes a dreamer to experience the kind of cosmic awareness that enables one to envision what the truth might be. There are those, of course, who think of you as flighty, as unable to accept what are the current facts in your search for facts that have not as yet been brought to light. But there are others who really appreciate your imagination, your grasp of cause and effect, your noble vision of the future. Align yourself with the latter.

Because you can be trusted to accept and hold confidences, you are often the recipient of other people's personal problems — indeed, much more often than you might like or feel you have time for. You will have to take care that you do not become so committed to the solving of other people's difficulties that you have little time and less energy left for meaningful involvement in the affairs of friends and loved ones.

Gifted with executive talent and the ability to persuade others to take over a goodly portion of any given responsibility, you should be able to lead any project from inception to completion without stirring up personality clashes or jealousies among co-workers. Given a practical, feasible idea to start with, you know how to work it up into a truly successful enterprise.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birth date and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, July 1
CANCER (June 22-July 23) — You have an excellent outlet for your emotions this Saturday; make use of it. This is no time to stand on ceremony with one who knows you well.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — The efficient employment of your major talent can make this an exceptional day, especially where relationships with young people are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Don't allow your affectionate nature to cause you to go overboard where the budget is concerned. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush — especially today.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Just because your most recent idea hasn't set the world on fire, you needn't lose faith in it. Perhaps a little more study is all the new motion needs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Though others may seek you out to act as a counselor in their various difficulties, you would be wise to find a way to say no — at least for the present.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — With your enthusiasm fired up, you should be able to get a new project far off the ground today. But don't let down your guard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Your natural generosity may land you in difficulties today. Give what you can afford to give — but not more than you can afford to lose.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Your talent for working with other people — even when you are not the least interested in the project at hand — should be made use of now.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Your understanding of another's predicament makes things easier all the way around. Loved ones respond to plans with genuine enthusiasm.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Patience is the virtue that will take you farthest at this time. Youngsters make it necessary for you to keep your emotions in check.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Share your good fortune with one who hasn't had many laughs lately. Your fondness for other people should make it difficult for you to refuse aid.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — A day which may well bring you your greatest success where personal relationships are concerned. Repairs may be needed on the home front.

Queen's Day

On Sunday, June 25, the Jacksonville Municipal Airport hummed with activity, both on the ground and in the air, as the Illinois Flying Farmer Queen, Norma Newberry of Jacksonville, route three, hosted the annual Queen's Day Fly-in.

Fifty-four airplanes flew in for the festivities which began with a church service at 11:30 a.m. led by the Rev. J. A. Mason, superintendent of the Jacksonville District of the United Methodist church.

A potluck dinner followed at 12:30. Door prizes were given and many out-of-state guests were recognized.

Kansas Flying Farmers, including the Kansas Farmerette Judy Brookhoff, were in attendance from Sabatha, Kansas. Region 3 Director Robert Stream and family of Ravenna, Michigan; Les Hein, Archer Petroleum Oil Co. representative of Davenport, Iowa; Ernest Thorp and family, International Flying Farmer treasurer of Clinton, and Clarence King and family, president of the Zeller Memorial Air Park of Palmyra, were also present as were many others from surrounding states.

Queen Norma had several royal guests in attendance, both present and past queens, among the more than 180 registered guests. Royalty included Queens Marilyn Ritzman of Pewaukee, Wis.; Mary Lou Swank of La Porte, Ind.; Luetta White of Bloomfield, Iowa, and Kathryn Gough of Perry, Mo.

Past retiring queens were Kay Wichman of Milford, Velma Wilson of Danville, Iowa, and Misty Iely of Monroe, Wis.

The State Farmerette, Zella Thorp of Clinton, won the $100.00 Archer College Scholarship award for scoring the highest of 21 teens taking the test Sunday on the regular FAA Private Pilot written exam.

Illinois Flying Farmers hold fourth place in the International membership, having over 500 members in the state, including 65 teen and junior members.

Escapes From Cass County

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN — The two youthful prisoners who broke out of the Cass county jail at Virginia after stealing a gun and car belonging to a deputy and locking a jailer in a cell have been sentenced.

Circuit Judge Fred W. Reither Monday set a term of 3 to 6 years in Menard penitentiary for Mike Thornton, 17, of Alton. He previously had remanded Daniel McDowell of Timewell to the custody of the Youth Commission.

Thornton was taken Wednesday to Menard by Chief Deputy Carl Wubker.

McDowell is confined to the youth section of Joliet Penitentiary. The Youth Commission will determine the length of time McDowell will be in its custody.

The pair was captured on a blacktop road a mile north of McLean shortly after their escape last month.

The escapees allegedly robbed a farmer at Miner, talking several personal checks, which will be in Arenzville East cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the Williamson Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday. Friends wishing to do so may consider contributions to the Arenzville United Methodist church Memorial Fund.

Thornton and McDowell, both on charges of burglary, forgery and deceptive practices, and McDowell was being held for theft of less than $150 and criminal damage to property in the Beardstown jail.

Cass county Deputy Sheriff Carl Wubker said Thornton, a trustee at the Virginia jail, asked Jailer James Boyle to allow him to empty some trash cans about 11:40 p.m. the night of the break. This was not unusual since Thornton had been doing such work. When allowed to leave his cell Thornton got into the Wubker apartment, over the jail, took a .357 Magnum pistol and Mrs. Wubker's purse and keys to Wubker's car.

He returned to the jail and was locked in by Boyle, but a short time later told the jailer he could not sleep and asked to do some reading. He confronted the jailer with Wubker's pistol, ordered Boyle at gunpoint to release McDowell, locked Boyle in the cell and fled.

A general alarm resulted in capture several hours later. Thornton pleaded guilty to charges of forgery, burglary at the Sweetman cafe, and jail escape. He was represented by Atty. Marc Dahman, and sentence was pronounced following negotiations between Atty. Dahman and State's Atty. Walter Farrand.

McDowell, 15, was sentenced several weeks ago.

Preparation For Gardening

By C. G. McDANIEL,

AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Using a typewriter isn't much preparation for using a shovel—at least the gardening kind of shovel. This was made painfully clear when I was on vacation in Arkansas recently and dug and plowed and hoed and raked and crawled on hands and knees to plant a garden.

For most of the year, the green thumbs of this erstwhile farm youth are confined to stand-up cultivation of house plants in a city apartment. After a day of digging and chopping away Nature's undisciplined growth in Arkansas, I was miserably aware that the sedentary life and, alas, the years had sent the muscles of this spare frame into hibernation—permanently, it seemed. But with a moan, I again donned my overalls and straw hat and a bandana the color of my sunburned neck and set to work again with greater pain and less vigor. About three days of labor were enough—more than enough, my protesting body told me. Nature had been subdued, and where once weeds flourished there were parallel rows of mounded black earth where grew, or at least I hope there grew: String beans, lima beans, tomatoes, squash, okra, lettuce, egg plant, parsley, spinach and sweet peppers.

And there will be all those other goodies which won't have time to wilt between the picking and the preparing, and sturdy blossoms on strong stems standing in haughty superiority over their nothouse cousins. To deter the pests, I sowed smelly marigolds among the vegetables and strewed mothballs about as insect scarecrows. But I'm not optimistic. As highly as I regard organic

Little Railroad Supports A Town

By ROBERTA ULRICH

PRINEVILLE, Ore. (UPI)—The city of Prineville, population 4,380, is a prosperous-looking little town set in the central Oregon plains.

It has wide, paved, well-maintained streets, a public swimming pool, a well-manicured public park, a balanced budget and virtually no city property tax.

The reason for this pleasant situation is the "City of Prineville Railway," a 19-mile highly profitable freight line which has turned in $2 million to the city treasury since 1945.

Manager Merlin F. Nikolaus said last year the railroad had income of $687,000 and profits of $255,000. "This year it will be much more," he said. "We'll gross $750,000, maybe $800,000."

Profits Since 1945
From 1920, the first year the line reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission, through 1939, the little railroad took a net loss of $250,000—but since 1945 it has shown a profit every year.

The money the railroad turns over to the city—$135,000 last year—actually would make it possible to balance the Prineville budget without imposing a property tax—the chief source of income for local governmental units in Oregon. City fathers decided to continue a small levy next year, however, after numbers of city residents told officials they believed property owners should provide some support for local government.

Prineville got into the railroad business as a matter of civic pride and survival in the World War I era. When the Oregon Trunk Railroad was built to serve central Oregon, it bypassed Prineville. The city, determined not to be left off the railroad

Today, 94 per cent of the line's business is hauling lumber and wood chips from the five mills around Prineville to one of the two big railroads at Redmond.

Two trains a day five days a week make the eight hour round trip with an average of 20 cars per train. Some potatoes also are carried out here.

Coming back, the cars carry tires, livestock feed, fertilizers and petroleum products. In addition to the 19 miles of main line track, the line has seven miles of spur track. Its rolling stock includes three diesel locomotives, two cabooses and four gondola cars.

Nikolaus is responsible to a five-member board composed of Prineville's mayor as president of the line and four commissioners appointed by the mayor. The board sets policy but leaves Nikolaus pretty much alone to run the railroad.

As Nikolaus points out, the railroad's financial health depends on the state of the lumber business. Right now that business is good and Prineville owes much of its existence to the mills and the railroad that caused some of them to locate here. "Without this railroad," Nikolaus said, "Prineville wouldn't be anything."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

How Low Can Blood Sugar Go?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—The first time I wrote you I didn't tell you what was really bothering me, but I will this time. I had a blood sugar test in the hospital and it went down to 40 so I have low blood sugar and I nearly passed out.
How low can it go? My temperature is always a point lower than normal, about 97 degrees and I have a headache most of the time. Is this part of low blood sugar? One doctor put me on a sugar free diet and the next said no special diet, just suck on hard candy when I feel tired. The protein diet makes my problem worse and the candy increases my energy and then I get the headaches. I have had this problem for several years. I have thought of suicide when I get very depressed but luckily someone has always been around me. All I want is some answers and I don't seem to be able to get them. I read all of your columns so I won't miss it.
Dear Reader—I know how distressed you must be. A short time ago I wrote five columns on the problem of low blood sugar which should cover most of the points you have raised. If you have missed them perhaps you can go to your local newspaper office where they have a of their previous newspapers and look them up.
The best approach is not a strict protein diet nor using candy. I am not surprised that you have had trouble with both of these approaches. What you need is a good sensible diet. Eliminated concentrated sweets like sugar in coffee, syrup on hot cakes, and try to eat a diet based more on lean meats, lean poultry, and an adequate amount of vegetables and fruit. In brief, avoid the sugars and starches and be sure that you get sufficient protein and vegetables with roughage. This will go a long way toward helping your problem. Avoid sweet liquids. These pass directly through the stomach and are absorbed almost at once into the blood stream. This causes the blood sugar to go up sharply, then rebound to low levels.

There is a wide variation how low the blood sugar can be without causing trouble, but 40 is in the range to cause symptoms.
There are people who normally have a slightly lower temperature and I wouldn't worry about it. As a general rule animals with lower temperatures live longer than those with higher temperatures so you may actually live longer because of it.
There are some people who have reasons other than their diet for having low blood sugar. These include such things as an abnormal function of the pancreas and some of the endocrine glands, but I assume from your statement that you have had an examination that these problems have been eliminated.

Have questions about your blood sugar? If so, you'll want to read Dr. Lamb's booklet in which he answers your questions about this subject. Send 50 cents to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for "Low Blood Sugar" Booklet.

Cass Extension Unit Postpones July Meeting

CHANDLERVILLE — The American Legion Auxiliary of Chandlerville Unit 694 met at the Legion Hall Tuesday evening, June 20th, with 20 members present, including five officers.
The president, Mrs. Effie Wiseman, called the meeting to order and led the pledges. The secretary read her report.
The Auxiliary voted to donate $25 to the Boy Scouts to send one boy to camp in August.
The meeting was adjourned, and games were enjoyed with prizes won by Mrs. Robert Force, Mrs. Effie Wiseman and Mrs. Euna Lynn.
Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Leinberger, Mrs. Walter Duckwiler and Mrs. George Stuhmer.
Hostesses for the July meeting will be Mrs. Robert Force, Mrs. Leo Finn and Mrs. Royal Thomas.

Former Brown Resident, Dies

MT. STERLING — Former Mt. Sterling farmer, Ivan W. Thomas, 63, of San Jose died Wednesday at 8:35 a.m. at the St. Francis hospital in Peoria. He was born in Brown county, February 13, 1909, son of Sherman and Della Thomas. He married Viola Prunty January 31, 1934 in Peoria.

He is survived by his father, Sherman, wife and two sons, Carl of Petersburg, Virginia and Glenn of Mt. Sterling.

One sister, Mrs. Nora Myers of Beardstown, one brother, Frank of Mt. Sterling, a foster sister, Mrs. Robert Silger and five grandchildren also survive.

He was preceded in death by his mother, one brother and one sister.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Hufnagel Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Paul Lyon and the Rev. Conrad Gerloff officiating. Burial will be in the Hersman cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

AREA STUDENTS ON DEAN'S LIST AT BLOOMINGTON

BLOOMINGTON—The Dean's List for the second semester of the 1971-72 school year at Illinois Wesleyan University included 602 students, the most ever named, Dr. John L. Clark, dean of the university, announced.

To be placed on the Dean's List, a student must have earned a grade-point average of at least 3.250, based on 4.0 for all A's during the semester.

Those from Jacksonville include Norman Edwin Crocker, 308 Laurel Drive; Linda L. Floeth, 1832 Mound; James A. Parrot, 866 North Church street; Marshall Gregory Robinson, 423 Southville.

Others from this area were Linda Lee Dean, Hillview; Larry Lee Ballard and Mary Eileen Davis of Roodhouse; Kay Black, John McQuillan, Neal A. Nichols and Elizabeth Ellen Springs of White Hall.

Richard Eugene McCoy, Hersman; Linda S. Koch, Mt. Sterling and Nancy Susan Cosner of Ashland.

Bucking the Trend

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — In a departure from the trend to increase college and university tuitions, the New Hampshire Board of Trustees has voted to decrease in-state tuition by five per cent at the state colleges and the University of New Hampshire.

The trustees were able to effect the reduction because the New Hampshire legislature, meeting in special session, granted the public institutions a supplementary budget of $405,000.

CASS COUPLES IN TEL AVIV AFTER MASSACRE

BEARDSTOWN—Two Beardstown couples have returned to their homes from abroad after having experienced the aftermath of the fearful massacre of people in the International airport at Tel Aviv.

President Charles K. Dutch of the First State Bank here, and his wife Vivian, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGinnis were on separate trips to the Holy Land about the time of the killings by Japanese terrorists. Mr. McGinnis, president of the Beardstown Sanitary District and executive state secretary for the Illinois Knights of Columbus, and Mr. Dutch have been called upon to recount their experiences.

Mr. Dutch was a speaker at a recent meeting of the Beardstown Rotary club.

Both couples have traveled extensively in many nations abroad and say that the aftermath of the massacre at the airport did a great deal to spoil this trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutch were away 22 days on an escorted journey through the Holy Land and six other countries. The Dutches experienced a bomb scare which delayed their plane five hours and a 5 hour baggage check. They visited Turkey, Israel, Egypt, Cyprus and Greece. The McGinnis jaunt included following the route of the Apostle Paul through the Holy Land.

GREENE-CALHOUN SALON ATTENDS HARDIN MEETING

WHITE HALL — Members of Greene-Calhoun Salon No. 603, Greene-Calhoun County, who attended the regular meeting Friday night from White Hall were Miss Ruth Hitch, Chapeau Passe; Ivamae Dickerson, Pansy McCarthy, Georgia Taylor, Meda Hayes, Hazel Deavers, Lela Hubbard; from Roodhouse, Nona Frye and Lena Mae Clatt.

The group met at the Hardin, American Legion Home, with Mrs. Elda Whitworth, Hamburg, hostess, assisted by Ada Aderton, Hardin, Toni Gimbel, Gladys Kamp, Kampsville.

Hazel Deavers, Chapeau, conducted the business meeting, at which time final plans were made for members to attend the annual March of the 8 and 40 at the Sherman Hotel, in Chicago during July. Miss Hitch will be hostess for the annual Chapeau Passe breakfast on Sunday morning of the Marche. A social hour of games followed the business meeting, and refreshments served by the hostesses.

There's Nothing Unique About Going Bankrupt

EDITOR'S NOTE — There's nothing unique about going broke. Businesses and corporations face it all the time—and declare bankruptcy. But, individual Americans can do the same thing, through a relatively quick court proceeding—and

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two years ago, Irish emigrant Joseph Ridge thought the American dream had come true.

Working overtime, he earned almost $15,000 a year. He was up to date on all his loan payments and his company was negotiating a new wage contract. Then came a strike and the Phase I wage freeze and suddenly he was out of work. He had no money to pay his bills. Finally, the seven-month strike ended, but the money to 12 creditors. So did the overtime. And Joe Ridge became one of about 130,000 persons each year who declare individual bankruptcy. Although they are the least publicized bankrupts, the "Joe Ridges" are typical. Research by the Brookings Institution in Washington shows the average individual bankrupt to be a blue collar worker, about 40 years old, earning about $10,000 a year. He is usually a man, with a family, and he is usually in an unskilled job as a frameman, connecting underground wires with equipment in the central office. When Ridge, 43, filed bankruptcy, he owed $5,130 to two finance companies, a bank charge card, a department store and a mail order catalogue firm. Another $200 owed to his employer is deducted from his salary at the rate of $10 each week and was not declared.

According to law, if this could be proved, the debts would not be dischargeable. However, Judge Babbitt pointed out it virtually is impossible to prove. "He can go out and buy TV sets and bedroom sets to his heart's content," said Babbitt. "His creditors may be galled but they have been galled by their own lack of business prudence. We recognize the frailties of people but the only brake and I mean a-a-k-a-e is that if he does, he'd better not do it for another six years and he'd better come back honestly."

Some debts are never dischargeable—taxes, alimony, child support, fines, debts incurred fraudulently or those resulting from intentional injuries to persons or property.

The Ridges did have one other alternative under the bankruptcy law, filing a wage earner's plan in which a court-appointed trustee administers, for a fee, an extended payment or partial payment plan. About 30,000 people in the United States file these plans each year. But it is out of the question for the Ridges. Without overtime, Joe has only earned $1,800 so far this year and the prospects for higher wages don't look good.

"These are not bad people," reflects Babbitt of bankrupts generally. "Oh, you get deadbeats sure, but you also get the fellow who has huge medical bills and a mongoloid child and then his wife gets sick."

Babbitt says he believes bankruptcy is a form of rehabilitation for the honest bankrupt.

Other people, including some poverty workers, have taken a more militant stand. One Washington civil rights worker has suggested the best way for the poor to divide up the wealth a little more evenly is to run up large bills, then declare bank-

Slavicek said he believes more people would declare bankruptcy if they only realized it was a civil, not criminal, proceeding; that their credit will not be ruined forever, that it is not a drawn out court procedure, and that it does not necessarily mean the bankrupt has to give up everything he or she owns.

Most states exempt household furniture and clothes. Some states exempt automobiles. Exemptions on homes vary from state to state. North Dakota protects a farm up to 160 acres and $40,000. South Carolina exempts only $1,000 value.

Slavicek said that in some cases a person's credit could actually improve because they have become a rare American—people without debts. They do in fact, have a low repeat rate—about 2 per cent—and a creditor has the assurance that bankruptcy can only be declared every six years. Sometimes credit purchasing can be done by making larger down payments.

"However, most people after declaring bankruptcy don't want to ever hear of credit again," Slavicek said.

High Court Rules Death Penalty Illegal

Court Decision Reactions Vary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Death row inmates in U.S. prisons cheered and whooped when they learned the Supreme Court had barred capital punishment. Their hopes were perhaps expressed by convicted rapist Lucious Jackson Jr.: "I've been thinking about death for a long time. Now I can think about living."

But to many other persons, including some law enforcement and public officials, the mood after Thursday's court ruling was expressed by Mississippi's Gov. Bill Waller: "I believe we can have better law enforcement with the death penalty."

Legislators in some states vowed to try to reinstate capital punishment in some circumstances, an option left open by the Supreme Court.

But if the ruling caused some misgivings outside the prisons, it triggered jubilation inside them. The 96 men and 1 woman under the death penalty at Florida's Raiford prison were told of the ruling as they came out of a movie. "There was considerable shouting and hilarity," said Asst. Warden James Tompkins.

The warden at Stateville Penitentiary, said today reaction among prisoners to the Supreme Court's ruling striking down the death penalty varied from elation to acceptance "from those who had anticipated it coming."

Twomey, at a news conference after the Supreme Court ruled in a 5-4 vote, that the death penalty as it is now applied is unconstitutional, said 30 of them 32 men in Illinois currently under the death sentence are imprisoned at Stateville. The other two are confined to the psychiatric ward at Menard State Prison.

Twomey said he does not yet know how the Supreme Court's ruling will affect the prisoners under death sentences.

Peter Bensinger, director of the Illinois Department of Corrections, said in Chicago that he has requested a legal opinion from William Scott, Illinois attorney general, on how the ruling applies to each case in Illinois.

"Until we receive clarification from the attorney general's office, we will be unable to advise with respect to any new sentences or court proceedings regarding the inmates in question," Bensinger said.

Winston Moore, director of the Cook County (Chicago) Department of Corrections, said he would still favor the use of the death penalty in certain cases.

"In cases where law enforcement officers, correctional officers and guards are killed, the death penalty should be left in," he said.

Leonard Schwartz, state counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, said his group was "pleased with the result. We have held that in our time, the death penalty is a cruel and unusual punishment. We have felt that to take another man's life is a moral wrong, regardless of the wrong that may have been committed."

Law enforcement and public officials were divided in their reactions.

"I have long felt that the death penalty had not proven to be a deterrent to crime," said Evans. "States that have had a death penalty have not had less crime than those states that have not had it."

But many officials were disappointed and critical.

Strong language was used by Georgia Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, who attacked the ruling as "a license for anarchy, rape, murder." He predicted that strong vigilante groups would form within five years.

Ken Brown, an official of the California Correctional Officers Association, which represents 3,000 prison guards, suggested the possibility of a national drive to amend the U.S. Constitution. "We're in kind of a state of shock," said Brown.

In Pennsylvania, where the electric chair was dismantled in 1970, State Rep. Harry R.J. Comer has been trying to reinstate the death penalty by legislation. He said of the ruling: "It's a sad day for the law and order movement."

Mr. and Mrs. Odie Meadows, 1218 Hackett, became the parents of a son at 6 p.m. Thursday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dyer, 504 W. Walnut, became the parents of a son at 8:23 p.m. Thursday at Passavant hospital.

Nixon Reveals

could realistically handle the war alone without substantial U.S. firepower.

That question is being answered now, he replied, noting that on the ground the South Vietnamese are doing well. In the air, he added, 40 per cent of all tactical air sorties over the Vietnamese battlefronts are now being handled by the South Vietnamese.

Success of air strikes in stemming the offensive, he went on, "hastens the day" when the South Vietnamese can assume complete responsibility for the air war.

Nixon said the effects of the American Mining of North Vietnam harbors and the bombing "the situation in Vietnam has been turned around."

He said "The South Vietnamese are now on the offensive." In response to a question, Nixon said bombing attacks on North Vietnam ordered by Gen. John Lavelle without authorization did not affect diplomatic negotiations with North Vietnam. He noted that the bombing was applied to military targets but added it was proper to relieve and demote him since the attacks had not been authorized.

Asked about Pentagon requests for new weapons after his Moscow arms-control agreement, Nixon said "the problem in regards to arms control is that we do not deal with it in a vacuum."

He said without the ABM arms-control agreement, and limited control of other weapons, he would have had to ask Congress for $15 billion a year more for nuclear weapons on a crash basis.

He said Russia's plans had been for 1,000 ABMs, and to a total of 90 submarines, rather than their present 62.

In five years, under those circumstances, the United States would have been hopelessly behind, and its allies terrified, he said.

The Moscow agreements "at least put on a brake" in regards to new weapons.

"No president of the United States can take the responsibility of allowing the United States to become a second rate power," he said.

Nixon said the new accords on arms are a first step toward peace, and we must go ahead with phase two of the negotiations which will be a permanent agreement on all new offensive weapons.

Nixon also said he would tell the Republican presidential convention delegates his choice for vice president well before the Aug. 21 convention.

As to the current vice president, Spiro T. Agnew, "I think he has done a fine job."

Asked about a proposed 20 per cent Social Security increase in Congress, Nixon said "There should be an increase in Social Security" but that the problem of the 20 per cent increase proposed in the Senate is what it would do to the Social Security system and to inflation.

The increased payroll tax to pay for it would completely wipe out the tax cut of 1969, he said.

That's a question Congress has to address itself to," he said.

If Congress didn't boost the tax to pay for a 20 per cent hike in Social Security, it would jeopardize the Social Security trust fund, he said.

"The increase must be a responsible one," he added.

Nixon was asked how he plans to bring unemployment down below 6 per cent.

He said great strides have been made on the employment side and added that the rapid improvement of the economy "is going to reflect itself" in bringing the unemployment rate down later in the year.

He said no additional steps are contemplated to assist the economy but that present policies would be continued.

He said the rate of inflation had been cut in half. He said "we are continuing to explore other means" of bringing down the unemployment rate from the current, unsatisfactory level.

Nixon was asked about capital punishment and if it should be reinstated in the light of the Thursday decision by the Supreme Court lifting the penalty for 125 convicts who had appealed.

Nixon said he tries to read the opinions but could not read all nine. But he said he did read Chief Justice Warren Burger's and said he understood there were situations where capital punishment could apply.

Nixon said any punishment is cruel and inhuman which takes the life of a man or woman. But he said in cases like kidnapping and hijacking, what "we're trying to do" is deter occurrences.

He cited the Lindbergh law, and said he feels death is a good deterrent for capital crimes.

As far as the court's decision is concerned, he said he does not think it necessarily applies to the specific federal crimes he mentioned, kidnapping and air piracy. He said the court's decision does not go that far.

Rock Festival Moved From Peoria County

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The sponsor of a July 4 rock festival said Thursday the event will take place but will be moved from Peoria County to comply with a court order.

Herschel Tucker, 26, of Peoria said the festival will be held within 10 miles of Peoria but refused to name the site. Other counties in the Peoria area are Woodford and Tazewell.

Tucker said up to 30,000 persons were expected at the original farm site southwest of the city but, because of nationwide publicity given the event by the court action, up to 60,000 persons may attend.

Asked if there would be sanitary facilities to accommodate 60,000 people, Tucker said: "Hopefully, I don't know. I had originally planned for 30,000."

Tucker said Peoria County requires a permit in order to hold a mass gathering but that other counties do not have such an ordinance. He said a state law does not apply because the concert will not last 24 hours.

A teletype message from the Peoria County sheriff's office asking Illinois police departments to inform rock enthusiasts that the festival had been cancelled was erroneous, Tucker said. "I never told anybody it was cancelled," he said.

A Circuit Court Judge issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday barring the rock festival, noting that Tucker had not secured the necessary permits.

Peoria County officials had sought a restraining order.

Tucker said a protest march against county officials was planned for Saturday.

Youths planning to attend the festival will pay $8 or $10 to hear such groups as Quick Silver, Cactus, Big Brother and the Holding Company, J. J. Cole and the New Riders of the Purple Sage.

Hazardous Home NEW YORK (UPI) — It's safer at work than it is at home. The Health Insurance Institute says so, basing the statement on an analysis of National Safety Council data.

Last year there were 2.2 million disabling on-the-job injuries compared with 3.1 million disabling injuries off the job, many in the home.

IVI Ranks Split On Governor's Race

By PAUL A. DRISCOLL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Signs of internal dissension developed Thursday after a decision by the Independent Voters of Illinois against endorsing either Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie or his Democratic challenger, Daniel Walker, in the November election.

The IVI board of directors voted both candidates "qualified" for the office, but declined to endorse either.

The vote Wednesday night was taken behind closed doors, but various reports put the tally at 23 to 22 and 24 to 22.

A vice-chairman of IVI for political action, Peter Andersen of Bloomington, said the vote was contrary to the known, overwhelming support of the IVI's 3,000 members for Walker.

"I cannot be a part of an organization that ignores the will of its members," Andersen said in a statement. "And I personally feel that Dan Walker is far the superior candidate. I have therefore resigned my position with the IVI."

Board member Ted Silverman of Chicago also said the organization's membership overwhelmingly supports Walker. He said the board's vote "represented a closed door political maneuver by a willful group of politicians indebted to Richard Ogilvie."

Chairman Michael Shakman challenged Silverman's assessment.

"That's an inaccurate characterization" of board members who work for Republican administrations, he said. "You wouldn't call an assistant United States attorney a patronage worker."

Shakman said the IVI has "many pro-Walker members and many pro-Ogilvie members and this frees them to work for either candidate."

The IVI has a provision for calling a membership endorsement convention, but this was rejected several months ago, Shakman said, with Silverman among those "specifically voting against invoking that provision."

Walker, whom the IVI had endorsed in the primary over Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said he is confident of the overwhelming support of the IVI membership.

The IVI, an affiliate of the Americans for Democratic Action, endorsed Ogilvie in 1968 over the Democratic candidate, Samuel Shapiro, and also backed him in earlier campaigns for two other offices.

All Justices File Separate Opinions

Times reporter and Paul Papas of WTEV, New Bedford, Mass. White spoke for the majority and was backed by the four Nixon administration appointees, as in the Gravel case.

Also before recessing until October, the court ruled 6 to 3 that former U.S. Sen. Daniel Brewster, D-Md., can be prosecuted on charges that he accepted a bribe to influence his position on post office legislation.

And, in another 6 to 3 ruling, the court gave the Justice Department authority to bar alien visitors who preach "anarchistic" or Marxist doctrines. The case involved Dr. Ernest E. Mandel, an internationally known Belgian Marxist, who sought a visa to lecture at colleges, universities and conferences in the United States.

The capital punishment decision, probably the biggest one of the 1970-72 term, was produced by five justices who took divergent views of the Eighth Amendment's prohibition against "cruel and unusual punishment."

There are currently 598 men and two women on death rows in 31 states and the District of Columbia. Of these, 517 were convicted of murder, 79 of rape and four of armed robbery.

O'LEARY OVERSTAYS PRISON FURLOUGH
City police, sheriff's deputies and state police apprehended Kenneth O'Leary, 23, of 250 E. Wolcott and took him to the Morgan county jail about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday on a warrant from Menard prison.

O'Leary, an inmate there, was granted a three-day furlough to visit Jacksonville about two weeks ago but failed to return at the appointed time.

His actions were not described as those of a model prisoner. Police officers were recalled about midnight to move him to another portion of the jail after causing some damage in one cell area.

O'Leary will be held for Menard authorities.

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, virtually set for a lucrative return bout with Muhammad Ali on Aug. 23, signed Thursday for a 10-round fight with Puerto Rican heavyweight Pedro Agostino at New York's outdoor Singer Bowl July 14.

The former, two-time heavyweight champion, said he has a fight with Ali in the works for Aug. 28 at Madison Square Garden.

"It's not definite yet," said the 24-year-old native of Arroyo, P.R., said he has been inactive "because nobody will fight me."

Patterson is fighting him for a $35,000 guarantee from promoter Steve Brown of 15 Rounds, Inc. Brown said Agostino will collect $15,000.

CHICAGO (AP) — The father of one of eight nurses murdered in a Chicago apartment almost six years ago said Thursday that Richard Speck, the man convicted of the slayings and sentenced to death, "should never go free."

Joseph J. Matusek, whose daughter Patricia Ann, 18, was one of the victims, said the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that the death penalty, as it is now being applied in the United States, is unconstitutional, "will do nothing to deter crime."

"Everyone is talking about law and order, and here they do away with the death penalty," Matusek said. "The criminal is being protected and the people have to go on suffering."

"If some of these do-gooders had to suffer the way my family has and the way the families of those other nurses have," Matusek continued, "they would feel the same way I do."

Speck, 30, convicted in 1967 of the July 14, 1966 murders, is confined at Stateville Penitentiary in Joliet.

The U.S. Supreme Court last year reversed Speck's death sentence on the grounds that potential jurors were excluded if they objected to the death penalty.

The state must now resentence Speck. His conviction was not affected by the Supreme Court's ruling.

CARDINAL HURLER STILL LEARNING

Reggie Cleveland hasn't yet become a household word among National League pitching circles, but he has been around long enough to get his feet wet and then some.

The 24-year-old St. Louis Cardinal righthander has been a regular starter for the Birds for almost two seasons now, but became a 500 hurler for the first time in his major league career Wednesday night and confessed that he is still very much learning how and what to pitch.

Cleveland wasn't exactly overpowering in his 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday evening, but with a 15-hit attack threw well enough to earn his eighth victory in 12 decisions this year and even his career record at 20-20, the first time the Swift Current, Sask., native has been at the break-even point in the big time.

AFTER CLEVELAND, a husky 6-1, 195-pounder, lit up his "Auerbach cigar" and started to unwind, he talked to this reporter about his still-in-progress learning process that he hopes will keep him in St. Louis for several more years.

"I have felt real good the last six starts," started Cleveland, to the only reporter by his clubhouse locker. "Although I didn't have real good stuff tonight, I feel like I am becoming a better pitcher and feel more confident that I can do what I want to do out there."

"The big thing in determining my success in a game is how well I can get the change and slider where I want it. For instance, I threw only one curve ball all night and Williams lined a single on that one. Of course, he hit a slider for a single as well."

GETTING AWAY from the one-night performance, Cleveland regressed a year or two ago when he had to enact some major changes in his pitching style. Before this year Cleveland got in one game for the Birds in 1969, appeared in 16 with an 0-4 record in 1970 and became a regular with a 12-12 standing last season with a 4.01 earned run average.

"I could never master the curve ball and I had to come up with another pitch or two. All through the minors they tried to teach me to throw the curveball but I never developed a good one. And, I didn't have a change up. Two years ago I knew that I had to develop a slider and be able to get it over the plate when I wanted to. I still haven't mastered the slider, but I think it is getting better. I consider the slider my breaking pitch now, and try to throw the change three or four times a game, just enough to make the hitter look for it occasionally."

"THEY DON'T like to teach the slider to young pitchers and the young ones usually don't have a good one. The best thing about a slider is that it is thrown with the same motion as the fast ball, whereas you have to change your motion on the curve. The slider is definitely the best breaking pitch for most pitchers today. I pretty much developed the slider on my own, but I still have to perfect it to have complete confidence in the pitch."

Cleveland, a friendly sort with a strong competitive spirit, doesn't really have any goals set beyond perfecting the slider that he hopes will turn him into a big, consistent winner.

"I don't think you can start a season with a goal of 15 or 20 victories. You lose sight of each game and don't concentrate on the particular situation. Of course, I would like to win 20 every year as would every pitcher, but right now I just want to win a bunch, top last year's record and stay around a long time."

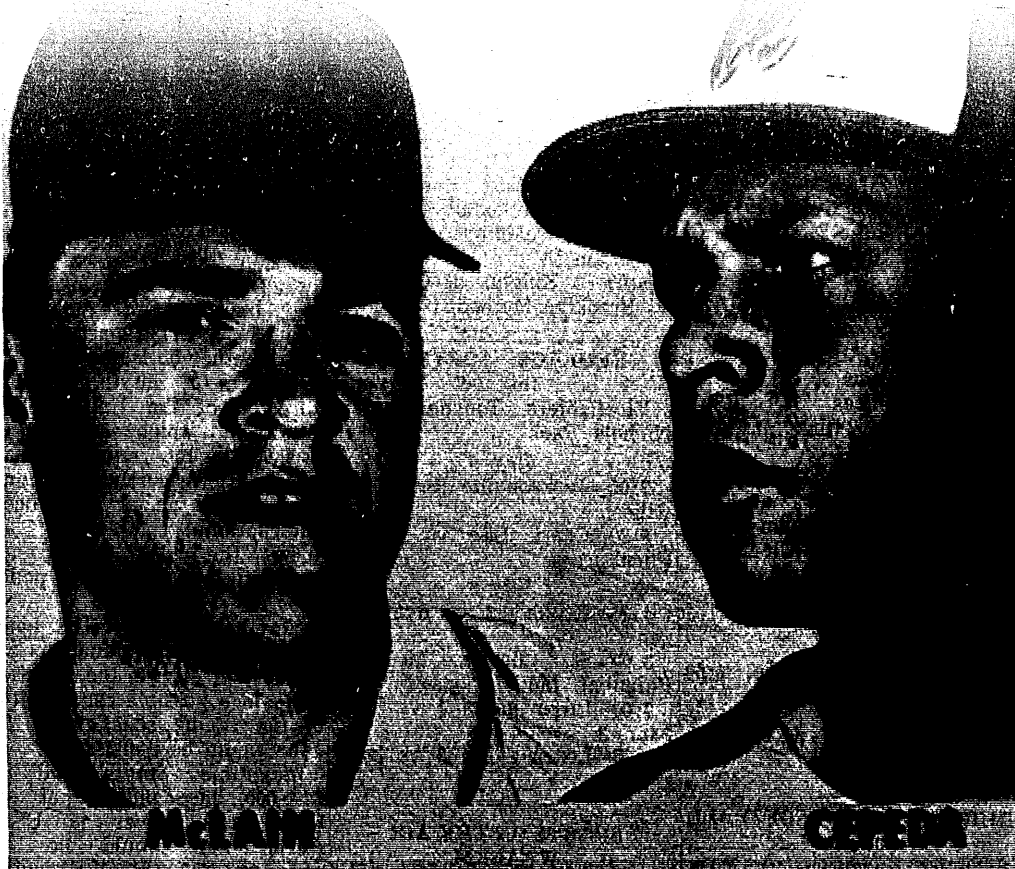

JACKSONVILLE'S Ken Norton has reached an even loftier level in the ratings of the top heavyweight boxers in the world. Norton, rated 12th in the world in this month's World Boxing Association (WBA) rankings, has moved up to tenth in this month's International Boxing magazine list, ahead of such names as Ernie Terrell (13th) and Ernie Shaver (15th). Mac Foster, who recently fought Muhammad Ali in Tokyo, George Chuvalo, eighth, and Jose Garcia, the only man to defeat Norton in 28 professional bouts, is listed sixth. By the way, Norton is still quite interested in staging a bout in Jacksonville, preferably later this summer, and discussed the possibilities while home briefly last week.

GEORGE HALEY, Jacksonville High School's outstanding hurdler, was recently picked on the all-state track team as picked by Paddock Publications, a suburban paper. Haley was picked in the high hurdles, for consistent performances throughout the season, for having turned in state-rated times in big meets and for placing in the state finals. Haley recently visited Northeast Missouri State at Kirksville.

JHS TRACK coach Al Rosenberger has been invited to attend the National AAU Track and Field Clinic at Sacramento State in California July 24-29. The all-week event will be an activity clinic with some 300 high school coaches from around the nation taking part in the events. This is the first such clinic sponsored by the AAU, with several foreign and national coaches to conduct the clinic, capped by the coaches attending the U.S.-U.S.S.R. dual track meet in Sacramento.

FORMER JACKSONVILLE High cager Frank Lawrence recently signed an athletic grant to attend Saint Leo College in Saint Leo, Florida. Lawrence, a two-year strater at Robert Morris Junior College in Carthage, Ill., was instrumental in leading his club to two National Junior College tournaments at Hutchinson, Kansas. "He is a team leader and I am certain he will be a favorite of the fans," commented Saint Leo cage coach Norm Kaye.

LESS THAN 300 tickets have been sold to the fifth annual Jacksonville Night at Busch Stadium July 15, according to a count Thursday. Chamber of Commerce Executive Secretary Ernie Stainton reports that a big push is needed right away if the city is to approach the four previous years during which Jacksonville has established the one, two, three and four-year records for such community nights at Busch Stadium. Tickets for the July 15 game vs the Cincinnati Reds are now on sale at the Chamber office for $3. All seats are in the loge section behind third base, with all tickets not sold by July 12 to be returned to the Cardinal office. Last year's total tickets sold came to over 1,600, the fourth year in a row that topped the previous season.

ATLANTA: The Atlanta Braves sent veteran slugger Orlando Cepeda (r) to the Oakland Athletics Thursday for former Cy Young winner Denny McLain and cash. Cepeda, the Most Valuable Player in the National League in 1967, has been bothered by bad knees. McLain, a 31-game winner in 1968, has been with Birmingham of the Southern League. Cepeda and McLain are shown in file photos.

McLain, Cepeda Each Get Wish

ATLANTA (AP) — Denny McLain and Orlando Cepeda, each controversial and each a winner of baseball's Most Valuable Player award, each got their wish Thursday.

McLain, a pitcher relegated to the minor leagues earlier this year, was purchased by the Atlanta Braves of the National League as part of a deal which sent Cepeda, a slugging first baseman, from Atlanta to the American League's Oakland A's.

The Braves, who announced the transaction, received an undisclosed amount of cash for Cepeda, along with the right to purchase McLain's contract from the Southern League's Birmingham farm team of the A's.

Then the Braves immediately bought McLain's contract. He will join Atlanta Friday in Houston, where the Braves will play the Astros.

Cepeda, reached in San Diego, said he was happy. "It's a challenge and you can't look back."

Cepeda had a knee operation over the winter and was troubled because he wasn't playing. Only two weeks ago he walked out on the Braves and was suspended for two days. At the time he had said he wanted to be traded or released. Thursday, the NL's MVP in 1967 got his wish.

McLain, after early season problems at Oakland with a 1-2 record and 6.05 earned run average, was sent to Birmingham. He had a 3-3 mark with a 6.32 ERA there.

Last week, however, McLain, claiming he was only down there to get in shape, flew to Oakland and reportedly asked owner Charles O. Finley for a return trip to the A's. Finley hinted he would try to get McLain back to the majors, if not with Oakland.

McLain, a two-time Cy Young Award winner in 1968-69, also captured the MVP award in 1968 when he won 31 games for the Detroit Tigers.

Englehorn Takes One-Stroke Lead In Women's Play

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Shirley Englehorn, who defied doctors that told her she'd never play pro golf again, took a one-stroke lead with a par 72 in Thursday's first round of the $40,000 U.S. Women's Open Championship.

Miss Englehorn, who hasn't played for a year because of two operations to fuse an injured left ankle, was the only player in a field of 150 professionals and amateurs to match par.

Pam Barnett and Betsy Cullen were one stroke back with 73.

"Last week is the first week I walked 18 holes—I played five rounds—and I didn't decide until last Thursday to compete," said the 31-year-old golfer, who won the 1967 Ben Hogan Award for her comeback to golf after the automobile accident that damaged her ankle two years earlier.

Shirley, who won close to $50,000 on the tour in 1969 and 1970 when she captured four titles, was one over after the first nine. She bogeyed two par fours but took a birdie two on the No. 6.

"That was a great shot," she said of the birdie, one of the handful carded on the 6,228-yard Winged Foot Golf Club East Course, which was still suffering the effects of tropical storm Agnes.

Behind Miss Barnett with 74s were Kathy Cornelius, 1956 Open winner; Marbo Sasaki of Japan; and Kathy Ahern and Gloria Ehret.

Janie Blalock, who struggled in with a 78, summarized the day's play well when she said the course was in control of her instead of her being in control of the course.

She was in good company. Kathy Whitworth, second to Miss Blalock on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour money list this season and the all-time money winner who has won every major title except this one, shot a seven-over-par 79. So did defending champion JoAnne Carner, 1965 winner Carol Mann and at least four of the U.S. Curtis Cup team members—Laura Baugh, Jane Bastanchury Booth, Barbara McIntire and Martha Wilkinson Krouse.

The field will be cut to the low 50 scorers and ties after Friday's round. Sunday's final play will be televised by ABC-TV, beginning at 4:30 p.m., EDT.

HITS McLAIN WELL BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—If former Detroit and Oakland pitcher Denny McLain had to face Smokey Robinson of the Montgomery Rebels each time he pitched here he might never get back into the major leagues.

On May 20, in McLain's first outing in the Southern League, Robinson homered twice and drove in five runs as the Rebels clouted McLain for nine hits, including three homers, in five innings. Five days later Robinson duplicated his two-homer, five-run-batted-in feat as McLain gave up 10 hits, including three homers, in six innings.

Carlton Records 9th Win Of Year As Mets Fall 9-4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Carlton won his ninth game of the National League baseball season Thursday night, helping his own cause with a two-run single and pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-4 romp over the New York Mets.

Bill Robinson and Don Money had home runs and Larry Bowa and Greg Luzinski contributed three hits apiece to spark a 17-hit Phillies attack.

The Phillies turned the game around with four runs in the fifth inning to take a 6-3 lead. Two of the runs came on Carlton's bases-loaded single as Philadelphia sent 10 batters to the plate.

Carlton allowed just seven hits and struck out 13 Mets.

In the fifth with the Mets leading 3-2, consecutive singles by Oscar Gamble, Joe Lis and Greg Luzinski tied the score. Bowa's bunt single loaded the bases and then Carlton's hit gave the Phillies the lead for keeps.

Santo's Error Lets Cards Tip Cubs 4-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ron Santo's two-out error let in the winning run during a four-run rally in the sixth inning, carrying the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 National League baseball victory Thursday night over the Chicago Cubs.

Santo, the Cubs' third baseman, scooped up Jose Cruz's high hopper with two Cards aboard during the rally but threw wildly to first base as Joe Torre raced from second to home, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Bernie Carbo followed the error with a single up the middle that scored Ted Simmons to climax the rally and pin the defeat on rookie right-hander Burt Hooton, 6-6.

Hooton limited the Cards to Matty Alou's first-inning single and had retired 13-batters in a row before his pitching rival, Rick Wise, 8-7, led off the sixth with a broken-bat single to left.

Lou Brock extended his hitting streak to 15 games by doubling Wise to third, then Ed Crosby's ground ball scored Wise and Alou fouled out. A single by Torre scored Brock to tie, and Simmons also singled ahead of Santo's error.

Chicago, held to seven hits by Wise, scored in the opening inning on hits by Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams and Santo and made its lead 2-0 in the top of the sixth on Santo's three-base hit and Jose Cardenal's single.

Pirates Streak To 9-0 Shutout

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Nelson Briles tossed a three-hit shutout and Richie Hebner cracked a three-run home run as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Montreal Expos 9-0 in National League baseball Thursday night.

Briles, who halted the Pirates' losing skid at three games, allowed only one walk and three harmless singles by Boots Day in the first, sixth and ninth innings.

The Pirate right-hander, 6-2, also contributed a run-scoring single in the fourth inning when Pittsburgh exploded for five runs off Ernie McNally, who suffered his 10th defeat.

Bob Robertson, who singled home a Pirate run in the second, opened the fourth inning scoring with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Gene Alley followed with a double to right center that drove in a pair of runs, before Briles' single and a double by Dave Cash drove in two more.

New Advocate Of Short Hair

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Hair we go again.

A man charges out of the stands, interrupts a ball game and chides a young hitter for wearing his hair too long during a Little League contest in Grafton, W.Va.

The father of the boy is incensed when he discovers the man who did that to his son is the league president.

"My son has been singled out, discriminated against and harassed," says the father. The case has so many overtones it eventually reaches the attention of the State's Human Rights Commission.

Football has its little episode also.

John Ralston, taking over the Denver Broncos this year for the first time after coming out of Stanford, sees some of his players in a brief session and lets them know he expects them to get a shave and haircut before they report to Pomona, Calif., for regular workouts next month.

Ralston wears his hair short. He doesn't care if you wear yours down to your shoelaces—so long as you don't play for his ball club.

Those on the side of long hair will ridicule Ralston's ruling the same way they did Ed Khayat's last fall when the Philadelphia Eagles' coach made his players come clean, or reasonably so, anyway.

Did you notice though, nobody was laughing at Khayat by the end of the season?

Anyway, John Ralston never struck me as some kind of fanatic and he assures me he's not, about long hair or anything else, so I asked him what prompted his shave-and-haircut edict.

"Actually it wasn't anything like an edict," he said. "I didn't say we wouldn't have any moustaches. All I said in that connection is that a little moustache is all right and the players can wear their sideburns medium length, but I do expect them to get rid of the extra foliage. This is one place I expect them to put the team above their own individuality."

Well, we had a couple of fellows at our rookie camp, two in particular," Ralston said. "Did they have long sideburns?"

"They had a full beard," laughed Denver's new coach.

Franchise To Kaisers

CHICAGO (AP) — Jordan H. Kaiser no longer will have trouble getting hockey tickets. The wealthy Chicago real estate developer, and his brother, Walter, were introduced Friday as owners of the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

They said it represents an investment "in excess of $1 million" and some of this will be allocated "to put the right players in the total picture" of the WHA, whose greatest coup was capturing Bobby Hull from the Chicago Black Hawks this week with a multimillion-dollar Winnipeg Jet contract.

"There has been a great demand by fans to see hockey and to obtain tickets in Chicago," said Kaiser. "I, myself, had a tough time the last two years getting tickets for Black Hawk games. Now we've got our own club."

Kaiser is convinced he is getting more for his $1 million than a season pass to watch the Cougars in the International Amphitheatre.

The club fits in with the Kaiser's Sports Centers International, which encourages and develops the building of sports complexes—such as indoor tennis, roller skating and golf facilities.

Kaiser said Winnipeg's signing of Hull is an important first step in doing a lot to assure success of the WHA, but providing good competition on a major league level is the most important objective.

"Hull's signing," he added, "will be the difference for many NHL players who may be on the fence trying to decide whether or not to join the WHA."

At the same time, the Cougars announced the signing of a two-year contract by Reggie Fleming, 36, who has played for six NHL teams in 13 years. The list includes the Montreal Canadiens, Black Hawks, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers and Buffalo Sabres.

The aggressive Fleming, utilized most of the time as a penalty killer, amassed 1,468 minutes in the penalty box during his NHL career.

Last season the Sabres farmed him to the Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League and the Salt Lake City Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League.

Fleming said he always played to win and will continue to do so "even if I have to take Hull into the penalty box with me. We've had some differences in the past."

Asked what the Cougars are paying him, Fleming reddened and snapped: "I don't ask you your salary, do I?"

Asked if he told Punch-Imlach, coach of the Sabres, that he was going to jump to the WHA, Fleming said: "I didn't have to tell him—he just said go ahead."

American Teens Continue To Roll

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — American teen-agers Jim Connors and Chris Evert continued their winning ways in the All-England Tennis Championships Thursday before a jam-packed center court crowd.

Connors, 19, the left-hander from Belleville, Ill., beat Adriano Panatta of Italy 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, 6-6, in an all-action duel that ended on a sour note.

The fans whistled at a doubtful line call which gave Connors a vital service break in the next-to-last game. It was a scene seldom seen in the famed Wimbledon arena.

Little Miss Evert, 17, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., played on the center court for the first time and coolly outstroked Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., 6-3, 6-0.

Connors was one of three Americans who got into the last sixteen of the men's singles. The others were the top seed, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who overcame Alexander Mayer of Woodmere, N.Y., 6-3, 7-5, 6-6, 9-7, and Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., who slammed Patrick Hombogen of Belgium 6-0, 6-4, 6-1.

Two U.S. Davis cup members, Tom Gorman of Seattle and Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., have still to play their third round matches.

'Y' Softball

All three games were close Thursday evening in the YMCA American League at Nichols Park.

Hertzberg nipped Carnation 13-12 with a three-run seventh. Darrell Day, Jack Morris and Mike Meyer of Carnation and Mike Brady and Darrell Price of Hertzberg all slammed three hits.

D&D Sports Center clipped Wareco 8-7 with a run in the bottom of the seventh. Dave Mifflin had three hits for the winners.

Virginia Angulos knocked off Hesse Tire 9-6 with an eight-run sixth frame. Jim Downer stroked three home runs for the losers.

Four-Man Softball Team Here

The world-famous "King and His Court" four-man softball team will be appearing in Jacksonville on the afternoon of Sunday, July 9, according to an announcement by Ed Olson, President of the Jacksonville Pony-Colt League.

The King and His Court, starring pitcher Eddie Feigner, will play the Jacksonville Redlegs softball team in a 2 p.m. game at the Pony-Colt League Park on East Vandalia Road.

This will be the second consecutive year for the famous Four Man team to appear in Jacksonville. They played before an overflow crowd last summer at the Nichols Park diamond.

The King and His Court have played almost 5,000 games since the original foursome was organized in 1946. They have won almost ninety percent of those games. Feigner, The King, spices his act with "gimmicks" like pitching from second base blindfolded, and from center field.

Advance tickets for the July 9 game in Jacksonville are now on sale at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. The adult ticket price will be $2 at the gate on the day of the game. Players and coaches of all 12 teams in the Jacksonville Pony-Colt League have tickets for sale.

Tickets are also available at the Pony-Colt Park concession stand, Don & Gale's Sports Shop, Gates TV & Appliances, and Olson's Cleaners. And, in Winchester the tickets are being sold at Slater's Family Shoe Store, Marshall Chevrolet, and The Pla-More. Tickets are also available in Waverly.

Colt League

Winchester Kiwanis nipped Jacksonville Kiwanis 9-8 and First National Bank slipped past Waverly Petefish 3-1 in Colt League play Thursday night at the Pony-Colt Park.

Winchester used a five-run second and a three-run sixth but still had to hold off a late Jacksonville threat for the victory. The losers held a 9-4 hitting edge.

First National ran up a 3-0 lead in the first three and made the most of only two hits off loser Paul Turpin. Jack Clinto limited the losers to only three hits.

Racers May Reach Terms

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — The Schaefer 500-mile championship auto race was reportedly as officially cancelled Thursday, but there were indications that the warring parties might get together on a new date.

William J. Smyth, executive director of the United States Auto Club which sanctions the $400,000 event, announced the cancellation shortly after drivers showed up at the Pocono International Raceway and found the gates locked and guarded by uniformed policemen.

Smyth said the USAC board would meet in Indianapolis Saturday and discuss the situation. He said a possible renegotiation of the racing schedule at Pocono would be discussed.

Meantime, Smyth said the $275,000 base purse that had been turned over to USAC weeks ago would be impounded. The USAC Executive Committee will decide whether the money will be retained and distributed among drivers and car owners, Smyth added.

The impasse came about when Dr. Joseph Mattioli, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the 2.5-mile speedway, announced late Wednesday that the race would not be run Sunday as scheduled.

He cited a letter from Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp suggesting that the race not be held and calling attention to heavy damage in the Northeast area of the state from flood waters.

Shapp said he was concerned that an influx of 100,000 people for the race would overtax already badly battered roads, utilities and other facilities.

Mattioli also said that because of the cleanup underway in the disaster areas created by tropical storm Agnes, there would not be enough doctors, nurses, firemen and other emergency personnel to staff the facility.

Smyth and other USAC officials refused to accept a postponement. They said, among other things, that the perogative to postpone or cancel the event belonged to the USAC under the sanctioning agreement.

Bear And Rebels Net Easy Count

ROODHOUSE — Bear Hybrids outlasted Gold Coast 21-11 and the Rebels blasted Hatcher's Trucking 25-5 in Roodhouse Slow Pitch Softball League games Thursday evening.

Bear Hybrids was led by Herm Weder with three hits and Mike Gregory with two, each driving in three runs. Urban McDaniels drove in three with two hits for Gold Coast.

Mike Winters had four hits and drove in seven runs and Mark Frech chased in six with four hits for the Rebels, with Dick Peebles slamming two homers for the losers.

A's Take Second, Split With Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Epstein slammed a two-run homer in the eighth inning Thursday night and the Oakland A's defeated Chicago 3-1 for a split of their American League double-header.

Dick Allen hit a two-run homer and Wilbur Wood posted his fifth shutout, giving the White Sox a 4-0 triumph in the opener.

The White Sox knocked out John "Blue Moon" Odom in the ninth inning of the nightcap but Rolfe Fingers came on to get the final two outs and nail down the victory.

The A's were nursing a 1-0 lead which came on an unearned run in the first inning when Epstein hit his 13th homer after Reggie Jackson had reached first on a throwing error by losing pitcher Tom Bradley, 9-4.

The clout eased Odom to his fifth victory against two losses. Wood, 12-7, was in total command in the opener as he effectively scattered seven hits, struck out three and didn't issue a walk.

His only troublesome innings came in the sixth and the seventh. In the sixth, with one out, pinch-batter Angel Mangual singled and went to third on Bert Campaneris's double, but Wood retired Joe Rudi on a grounder and got Jackson to fly out.

With two out in the seventh, Gene Tenace and Dave Duncan both singled, but Tim Lincecum grounded out to end the threat.

White's Single Ends Palmer's Win Streak, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy White, maligned recently because of his fielding lapses, singled home the decisive run Thursday as the New York Yankees defeated Baltimore 4-3, ending the eight-game winning streak of the Orioles' Jim Palmer.

White's hit followed a leadoff triple by Bobby Murcer in the third inning and gave the Yanks a 4-2 lead in the American League baseball game. It also knocked out Palmer, 10-4, who suffered his first loss since May 11.

The Yanks tagged Palmer for their other three runs in the second. Baltimore 101 010 000-3 8 0

Kennedy Claims Sale Of Celtics Is Not Approved

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, said Thursday that the reported sale of the Boston Celtics has not been approved by the league.

He said approval could not be made until a meeting of the Board of Governors in July. He made his comment "because of the many misstatements and misunderstandings about the reported sale of the Boston Celtics."

The Celtics announced Wednesday that the governors had been asked to approve sale of the club to Robert Schmetz, a New Jersey business executive.

Redlegs Split At Taylorville

TAYLORVILLE — The Jacksonville Redlegs pounded out a 9-2 romp in the opener but fell 5-4 in nine innings in the nightcap to split with Taylorville Wednesday evening.

The Redlegs, now 12-18 for the year, blasted out 14 hits in the first game, including three by winning hurler Jack McNeely and two each by Larry Sellers, Wayne Smith, Fred Curtis, Gary Spangenberg and Jeff Knight.

Taylorville broke a 4-4 deadlock in the ninth of the finale on a leadoff triple, two intentional walks and a single by Scott.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Eight months after conducting his first meeting as Price Commission chairman, C. Jackson Grayson Jr. feels "we are at the point where we can't claim victory and can't be absolutely certain we will reach our goal."

Success in controlling price inflation is, however, a "reasonable, a feasible" prospect he said as he prepared for his first vacation break, a trip to Europe, following a string of double-length workdays and weekend sessions.

The real solution to inflation, he suggested, is not in artificial marketplace restraints but in making the economy more productive through management and worker innovation and creativity.

"We can treat the symptom," he said in reference to price restraints, "but it's a temporary thing."

His remarks were made in a telephone interview.

Increases in productivity have been disappointingly small in recent years. In the first quarter the rate dropped to 2.1 per cent. It was 4 per cent in the summer of 1971.

It is over a longer period, and in contrast to figures from other nations, that the problem stands out. In the years 1965-1970, the average annual increase in the United Kingdom was 3.6 per cent, Italy 5.1, Germany 5.3, France 6.6, Japan 14.2. In the United States it was only 2.1 per cent.

The importance of raising those figures should be obvious to all: Produce more goods for the same cost in time and money and you can profitably sell them at a constant or decreasing price.

But raising productivity isn't simply a matter of "turning out more widgets on the assembly line," Grayson points out. As has been shown in the past, attempts to speed up people as if they were machines is counterproductive.

Nor is the problem simply one of improving efficiency. It is far more complex. The solution involves not only more productive machines and workers, but creative, innovative approaches to the very concept of work.

"If work is exciting, workers will be more productive," Grayson believes.

But work isn't exciting for many workers. They complain it isn't meaningful, that they don't feel a part of the company, that they share no pride in the product.

This is one of the great challenges to anyone concerned with increasing productivity, Grayson feels, and he has a guideline for seeking the solution: "Spend more time with the individual and the individual will think of the innovation."

Other factors are also involved. Some economists insist, for example, that structural changes in American society contribute to the problem. Different norms, laws, practices and attitudes tend to restrict output, these economists say. They claim that the adversarial relationship between labor and management has defeated attempts at raising productivity. And they remind us that the social advances and corrections demanded of business also push up prices.

Worth Quarter Million, Still Fishes For Halibut

By ELDON BARRETT
SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Peter J. Riksheim, 73, still fishes for halibut although he could live high, dry and comfortably because of prudent investments he began making three decades ago.

Riksheim, a native of Norway, is worth about a quarter of a million dollars.

Asked during a dockside interview recently why he continued to go down to the sea in fishboats, the leathery-skinned sailor replied:

"Oh, I suppose I could do a lot of those other things, like visiting Panama again. But I've been just about every place I want to go. Besides, fishing is what I like to do. I got it in my blood."

Waiting on Pier 59 when Riksheim came in aboard the halibut boat Sylvia was William A. Reasoner, chairman of the board of Waddell & Reed, Inc., the Kansas City firm which manages a mutual investment company known as United Funds, Inc.

Reasoner, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., had returned to the Pacific Northwest to honor Riksheim because the fisherman has been a participating shareholder in United Funds longer than any of the group's other 500,000 members.

As he handed Riksheim a clock which operates perpetually on barometric pressure, Reasoner said the Norwegian's accomplishment in the field of finance "is one of unflinching high confidence in this nation's economic future as well as a splendid American immigrant success story."

Riksheim, somewhat bewildered by all the attention, said that reminded him that he hadn't checked in with immigration officials since the Sylvia returned from British Columbia fishing grounds but he remained long enough to explain that except for a one-year stint as a rigging slinger in the logging camps of Grays Harbor, Wash., and a tour of duty aboard a lighthouse tender in the Aleutian Islands during World War II, he always has been a fisherman.

Member of AEC Team
When he wasn't fishing with a hand line in the fjords of Norway, or for halibut in the North Pacific and Bering Sea, he was seeking tuna off the Galapagos Islands. He even went fishing for radioactive denizens as a professional member of an Atomic Energy Commission study team at Christmas Island following atomic tests in the South

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market managed to minimize its losses for the session Thursday, staging a technical rally in late trading. Volume was moderate.

It was the sixth straight session the Dow Jones industrial average closed lower. The slump was attributed by most analysts to investor uncertainty about international monetary conditions after Britain's decision to float the pound.

Monte Gordon, analyst for Sartorius and Co., said the stock market was oversold and, therefore, was "ripe for a technical rally" when the Dow industrial average tested the 920-930 area during Thursday's trading. The Dow industrial average closed down 4.59 at 926.25.

At one point during the session, the blue-chip indicator was off more than 10 points, but Gordon said the recovery in later trading was due to the market's own internal dynamics. "The market was in its own orbit, its own world, in taking this action," he said.

Volume on the Big Board swelled to 14.62 million shares from Wednesday's turnover of 12.14 million shares. Declines led advances 835 to 523 among 1,725 issues traded.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks finished the day down .12 at 59.08, while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost .20 at 106.82.

The Associated Press 60-Stock index dropped 1.5 to 319.6, another 1972 closing low. Industrials lost 2.2, rails dropped 1.7, and utilities gained 1.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index lost .03, closing at 27.17 as 3.56 million shares changed hands. Volume Wednesday had totaled 3.10 million shares. Of the 1,154 Amex issues traded, 516 declined, and 311 advanced.

Large blocks accounted for nearly all the volume of the three most-active Big Board issues.

The most-active was Olin Corp., up 1/4 to 16 1/4 on 438,800 shares, including a block trade of 425,000 shares at 16.

The Big Board said 113 blocks of 10,000 shares or more were traded Thursday, compared with a revised total of 121 such blocks Wednesday.

FORMER CASS MAN AWARDED PUBLIC RELATIONS TROPHY
BEARDSTOWN — A former radio announcer here and native of Beardstown, Roger Hunter, has been honored by District 8 of Tostmasters International with an award of the Governor's trophy for outstanding service in the field of public relations.

Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter, 316 Washington street, is chief engineer for radio station WRTH, Wood River, and AUCCO, radio corporation station.

He is also immediate past president of Wood River Toastmasters, and was District 6 Toastmaster Champion in 1970-71.

Hunter and his wife, the former Kay Hammel of Beardstown, and their 4-year-old daughter Scheryll Rene, live in Brighton where he is a village trustee.

Hunter was recently appointed to the radio-television advisory board for the Lewis and Clark Community College.

LOCAL RESIDENTS ATTEND FUNERAL IN MICHIGAN
Morgan county relatives returned late Wednesday from Detroit, Michigan after attending funeral services for their niece, Mrs. Mary Henry Gagan, who died unexpectedly Sunday, June 25, at her Detroit home.

Mrs. Gagan was born June 4, 1932, daughter of the late Alphonsus and Gladys Lindsey Henry. She is survived by her husband, Robert Gagan, and five children. Three brothers, Alphonsus, Jr., Thomas and Robert Henry, all of Detroit, Mich., also survive.

Those attending from Jacksonville were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lindsey, Mrs. Glen Lindsey and Mrs. Christine Bowman.

WINCHESTER FAMILY ATTENDS SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. James Hemmrough, Rick and Paul, of Winchester were among guests present at the potluck supper given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mason of Fort Meyers, Florida, former Jacksonville residents. The Everett Masons hosted the June 17th affair.

ATTEND CONFERENCE
Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Newcome have returned from the University of Illinois where they attended the annual meeting of the Illinois Conference of the First Congregational United Church of Christ as delegates from the Beardstown church.

Mr. Newcome is assistant postmaster in Beardstown. The conference took place on the campus of the University of Illinois, Champaign.

CHAMBER ACTIVE
Officers of the Beardstown Chamber of Commerce have announced plans to improve and beautify the Seawall and State Street dock.

In an effort to be coordinated with the city there will be general redecorating and painting of the popular State Street Viewing Stand and its general vicinity.

The city side of the cement wall is to be painted in color, with some identifying painting as well.

In Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — Of importance in boosting interest of Western Cass county citizens in the local blood collection program is the fact that Beardstownians recently have had occasion to take advantage of the supply of plasma donated here.

Former Mayor N. B. (Hap) Murray and Lutheran School Principal Norman Venz received blood from the blood bank to which Beardstownians have made donations. Both submitted to open heart surgery in Springfield and 9 pints of blood were made available to them.

This is among the many reasons for repeated cooperation by Cass county persons in the next effort to collect blood which will occur July 5. The project is sponsored from 1 to 6 p.m. in the CIPS company meeting room on Third street.

The blood given for the bloodmobile on the tri-annual visits is also utilized almost weekly at Schmitt Memorial hospital here, and thus the Red Cross Blood program has continually proved of definite help locally as well as elsewhere.

Mrs. Harry F. Loxley is chairman of the Beardstown Blood program, and is being assisted by a large number of volunteers who will work some 500 hours for the July 5 program.

NEW outdoor advertising law to go into effect July 1

If you are a sign owner or an advertiser along Illinois highways you'll need to know about this new law.

Enacted by the Illinois General Assembly, the law administered by the Illinois Department of Transportation regulates the size, number, type and location of signs permitted along interstate and primary highways. The aim of the new law is to promote the reasonable use of signs while preserving the natural beauty of our rural areas.

For your sign to remain up under this law, or for compensation for removal of a sign not meeting the new requirements, you must register it with the Illinois Department of Transportation.

If you want to erect a new sign after July 1st, you must obtain a permit from the Illinois Department of Transportation.

For detailed information on the new law, or to obtain forms for registering signs, phone signboard coordinator Stanley E. Grabski at the District 6 office of the Department of Transportation, 217/525-2063, or write District Engineer Harold W. Monroney, 126 East Ash Street, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

you'd not have so many with four good corners and holes in the middle.—MRS. L.W.R.

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. G. McV.'s letter prompted me to write in defense of clerks and cashiers who are not familiar with sale prices. This is not as easy as one may think. If everyone had to work in a retail store at least one day, they would have greatly changed attitudes. They would put items they had decided they did not want back on the proper shelves. They would make sure they had sufficient money or a check before being checked out and causing the cashier to make over-rings. They would check sales dates and not become angry when told an item was no longer on sale. The main thing to remember is that serious complaints should be taken to the store manager, who is usually quite courteous and concerned about any problems and will try to solve them. Clerks and cashiers do not always have the authority to handle many problems. Thank you for hearing our side.—KARLA

DEAR POLLY—After a few experiences like Mrs. G. McV. with cashiers not knowing sale prices, I adopted a practice which has proven to be most satisfactory. All the sale items are put out on the check-out counter last. By doing this, they are all together and I am free to watch the cash register when those items are rung up.—MRS. C.A.W.

DEAR POLLY—I cut off the ribbed stretch tops of those worn-out white baby socks and, when needed, use them as bandages for the small wounds and burns that often occur in a family and when you may be out of adhesive bandages. The tops can be cut to the desired width and mine are washed and kept in a special drawer.—ELSIIE

Philae Temples

EDITOR'S NOTE—The waters of the Nile are threatening the temples of Philae Island and work has begun to move the ancient pillars to a safer place. An AP correspondent, granted a rare permit, visited the site for this story.

By C.C. MINICLER
Associated Press Writer
PHILAE ISLAND, Egypt (AP)—Pneumatic drills are shattering the stillness of the temples of Philae, as Egyptian engineers blast and dig where armies have trod softly for more than 2,000 years.

The temples, which date back to 350 years before the birth of Christ, are to be moved to rescue them from the waters of the Nile River.

Although built among the granite islands that mark the Nile's dramatic surge into Egypt, the temples of Philae never witnessed the battles fought among the ancient tribes, or between Egyptians and Nubians from neighboring Sudan.

The island of temples is said to have stood as a neutral ground, where rival armies paid homage to gods and goddesses.

When Greek and Roman soldiers came to the island, they, too, built temples.

When Napoleon's army visited the island, some of his men left their names inscribed on the temple walls.

For the last 70 years the island has been under water most of the year, and with it part of the temples, giving tourists a unique opportunity to study nearly 2,000 years of art in relative comfort.

Temple viewing, be it of ancient Pharaonic, Greek, Roman or Coptic art, is normally a neck-cracking, pavement-pounding exercise, with the best art often beyond viewing above one's head.

But here one can view all four eras at pillar top level, sitting quietly, carefully not rocking the boat.

Instead of straining to see the decorations atop the soaring pillars, one merely gestures to the oarsman to gently alter his course, and drifts closer for a shoulder-level inspection.

One is awed by the size of the huge stone pillars and the boulders stored there, by the silence and agelessness of it all, as water laps gently against the side of the rowboat.

MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, needed just one quick look at dummy and the opening lead to see that his three no-trump contract was unbeatable. He was sure of a trick with his king of diamonds and after knocking out the ace of spades would have two spade tricks plus the three top tricks in each of the other suits.

His king of diamonds did win the first trick after Donalbain, sitting east, played the seven. At trick two MacDuff led a spade to dummy's king. Fience took his ace and led the suit back.

The game was rubber bridge for a shilling and a hundred and MacDuff looked carefully at the point score. A quick bit of addition and subtraction showed that an overtrick would be worth a whole shilling and MacDuff decided to go after it.

It looked like a cinch to score a second diamond trick so MacDuff won the spade in his own hand and led a diamond. Fience, sitting West, showed out and Donalbain collected four diamond tricks.

"Well," said MacDuff. "Greed is a terrible thing. I don't expect to make this bad a play again until Birnam wood doth come to Dunsinane."

and Romans added their places of worship. Among the temples to be moved is the one to Isis, first started 350 years before Christ, and later rebuilt and added to over the next 900 years by many, including the Greeks, Romans and Copts, who made it their own place of worship.

Also to be moved are Hadrian's pylon, the Kiosk of Trajan, and temples of Hathor, Horndotes and Augustus.

"Look long and well at this island and its temples, for it conveys a more adequate impression of how an Egyptian temple actually appeared in the days of the pharaohs than any surviving building on the Nile," wrote James Henry Breasted, one of America's leading Egyptologists.

"It is ... only a matter of a resque temples rising in shape less heaps and eventually disappearing," he warned in 1908, after the British built a dam below the island to help control the Nile.

The dam, completed in 1902, did eventually flood the island and temples for up to nine months a year, and tourists were restricted to temple-viewing by boat, after a pleasant half-hour row from a downstream road-end jetty.

In the 1960s, Egyptian and Soviet engineers finished another dam, about 4 1/2 miles upstream from the old one, and currents flowed faster in the minilake between the dams in which Philae Island stands.

Today an international rescue operation, reminiscent of the five-year rescue of the temples

UNESCO has launched an international appeal to finance the rescue of the temples of Philae, which are to be moved to a dry site atop a nearby island after each piece has been photographed, marked and fed injections of a reinforcing material to enable them to be moved safely.

An initial work force of 600 is expected to swell to 3,000 as the four-to-five-year project moves along, the government press reports.

Two Italian road-building companies, merged for this venture, have signed contracts to dismantle, move and re-erect the temples at an estimated cost of $5 million.

Total cost of the project is estimated at roughly $12 million.

New Style Elections Upcoming In Panama

By J. PAUL WYATT

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—Panama begins a new phase of its nationalistic "October Revolution" next month with the first ward elections in its history. The elections for representatives of 505 wards (corregimientos), scheduled for Aug. 6, will fulfill a promise made by strongman Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos to a rally in Panama City last Oct. 11.

Since the military junta banned political parties shortly after seizing power on Oct. 11, 1968, most of the 2,116 "pre-candidates" are political amateurs who nominated themselves. Before the junta, 10 or more political parties handpicked the candidates to represent the nation's nine provinces in the 42-member National Assembly. The elections were noted for their corruption.

Inner Circle, To Organize Local Chapter

A new social club for single persons over the age of 21 years, The Inner Circle of Central Illinois, Inc., is in the process of organization and development in the Jacksonville area. Incorporated on April 5 as a non-profit organization, the club provides recreation, group excursions and various social gatherings by members, adult singles, including divorced and widowed persons.

PIKE MAN AMONG MEMBERS OF WIU MUSIC THEATRE

MACOMB — A Pike County young man, Joseph Zende of Rockport, will appear in the musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," which is the first of three productions to be presented by Western Illinois University's Summer Music Theatre, a regional repertory company. It will be staged at 8 p.m. July 6-8 and 11-15 here in WIU's Browne Hall Theatre.

Residence Requirement
An important change in this election is that candidates must have resided in the ward they aspire to represent for at least one year prior to the beginning of the election process last March 16.

In past elections, politicians living in Panama City ran in elections for assemblymen from provinces they had never seen. So far the ward representatives' campaigns have been low-key, most of the candidates limiting themselves to sober analyses of their communities' needs. No public rallies are allowed. Electioneering is done by personal contacts and doorbell ringing.

The tasks of the 505-member People's Assembly will be the approval, rejection or modification of proposed reforms of the 1946 constitution and the selection of a new president and vice president.

The reforms, which government minister Juan Materno Vazquez said would "update" the constitution, were being drawn up by a 25-member citizens committee appointed last March by the junta.

How the assembly's work will be carried out and what will come afterwards are still not clear, however. These questions might not be answered until after the elections.

Critics of the Torrijos' regime claim the elections are designed to consolidate its control over the country and have little additional significance.

A government spokesman noted recently, however, that had it wanted to stop the military from "appointing" a rubber-stamp assembly or convoking a plebiscite on whether it should remain in power.

Leaders Popular
If it had opted for the plebiscite there is a good chance it would have won an impressive vote of confidence. Despite some grumbling about recent tax hikes, Torrijos' popularity today is at an all-time high.

This is due partly to a small economic boom engineered by Torrijos' technocrats and partly to Torrijos' own sincerity in trying to solve the problems of previously forgotten areas of the country.

Panama's 8.6 per cent economic growth rate in 1971 was one of the highest in Latin America and a spectacular 38 per cent increase in bank deposits last year confirmed the nation's emergence as an international banking center.

tic position in the negotiations for a new Canal treaty has won him widespread support.

Torrijos also has spent much time traveling into Panama's interior, logging 1,500 hours in the air during the last year alone. There he has picked up grass-roots support by acting on a myriad of local problems.

The August elections represent a significant shift in the country's traditional power structure away from the city to the country and away from strict proportional to geographic representation.

Gov. Ogilvie Satisfied With General Assembly

by H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie says he is satisfied with the accomplishments of the legislature during its spring session and particularly pleased with the passage of personal property tax relief.

Ogilvie told a news conference Thursday that a pair of bills passed by the General Assembly and sent to his office this week will essentially eliminate the personal property tax for most individuals.

"I recommended that the tax be taken off the backs of Illinois farmers," he said, "...and these important measures to help our overburdened taxpayers have been adopted."

Although he praised the legislators for some actions, he criticized them for failing to freeze real estate taxes, killing a bill which would have helped revitalize thousands of acres of strip-mined land, and failure to regulate political campaign spending.

"Except for these instances, and a few others, the record of accomplishment of this General Assembly has certainly been more than satisfactory," Ogilvie said.

The governor said his $7.4 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning Saturday has substantially been left intact and Ogilvie showed exceptional satisfaction at the passage of his $561 million capital bonding proposal.

In answer to a newsman's question, Ogilvie vigorously defended his budgetary recommendation for financing the state's elementary and secondary schools, a subject over which the Republican chief executive has strongly disagreed with Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction.

Bakalis, a Democrat, said the Ogilvie budget does not have enough money to adequately finance the schools during the 1973 fiscal year. He had recommended that $911 million be distributed to the school districts, $123 million more than called for by Ogilvie.

This week the Senate reached a compromise which increases the allocation recommended by the governor by $11 million, but Bakalis said it still isn't enough.

Ogilvie said, however, that his administration has increased the school fund from $518 million in 1968 to a total of $1.39 billion for the next fiscal year.

Next to the growth of the disastrous public aid program, which has been dictated by factors almost totally out of state control, the funds for the common schools have had the largest single increase in the state budget," he added.

On other topics, Ogilvie said the state would finance the acquisition of land for construction of a new St. Louis Metropolitan airport even if the federal government refused to come up with matching funds.

Land acquisition, he said, would cost about $30 million. If the site near Waterloo is approved by the federal government, half of the money would come from Washington, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and other Missourians have lobbied vigorously in Washington to land the airport in Missouri.

Senate Moves To Bar Bail To Murderers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate passed emergency legislation Thursday to keep 500 persons charged with murder from being freed automatically on bail by the U.S. Supreme Court's death penalty ruling.

The high court ruled earlier that the death penalty violates the Eighth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which bars cruel and unusual punishments. Sponsored by Sen. Robert Egan, D-Chicago, the bill was whisked through the Senate and sent to the House for quick passage before the summer adjournment of the legislature.

It deletes from the criminal code a provision that only persons charged with capital offenses may not be freed on bail.

In place of that provision, it bars bail to those charged with the three crimes formerly punishable by death under Illinois law: murder, aggravated kidnapping and treason.

Egan said that no one is currently being held in this state on charges of aggravated kidnapping or treason. But he said 500 persons awaiting murder trials in jail would be freed if the measure were not passed.

Most lawmakers said they were shocked by the court's decision.

"I hope they get up off their black robes and hear the prayers of the girls Speck murdered," Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, said, his voice quivering.

Sen. Karl Berning, R-Deerfield, argued that the high court's decision means "that the average citizen almost certainly will now have to arm himself."

"I don't see why we have these cries of inhumanity and mistreatment when we put these animals away," Sen. Donald Carpentier, R-East Moline, said. "Now they're going to let them take pot shots at anyone on the street."

Egan emphasized that his measure "does not condone anything the Supreme Court has done."

At least one lawmaker looked with favor on the decision. Rep. Robert E. Mann, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of anti-death penalty bills for the last five sessions, told a news conference he was "exuberant" that the Supreme Court "has reached into the heavens to bring morality."

"Punitive justice has produced nothing but an acceleration of violence," he said. "I feel very vindicated."

SCOTT COUNTY MAN RETURNS

A 29-year-old Scott county man, Robert Laughary, was reported back home late Wednesday.

Officials there searched a pond and other areas of the county when the young man apparently wandered off from his home at Route 1, Bluffs, near Merritt.

Scott officials notified Morgan and Sangamon authorities that he had returned about 9:20 p.m. Wednesday. He had been reportedly wandering around and hadn't realized so much time had passed.

Art Fair Attracts Record Number Of Exhibitors

More artists will exhibit their works at the Jacksonville Art Fair July 8 and 9 than in the past four years that the event has been conducted under sponsorship of the Downtown Jacksonville Associated Merchants.

The estimate is based on the 64 booths assigned to 69 individuals and organizations two weeks before the opening in the city square. The works of 66 artists were shown and offered for sale in 60 booths last year.

Mrs. Marian Patterson, executive director of the fair, reported that artists and artisans will come from Chicago, Kansas City, Springfield, DeKalb, Champaign, Peoria, Pekin, Canton, Alton and 17 other Illinois and Indiana cities and towns. Fifteen will be Jacksonville individuals and organizations and 11 will come from Springfield, Chicago, Peoria, and Pekin will each be represented by four exhibitors.

For the first time, a special booth will be made available this year for amateur or professional artists who wish to display only three or fewer works. A nominal charge of one dollar for each item entered will be made. There will also be a booth set aside for high school art that will not be entered in the judging for cash and purchase awards amounting to $1,600.

Entry blanks may still be obtained from the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce office.

'Glass House' Bill Goes To Ogilvie

By MICHAEL ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate put the finishing touch Thursday on House Speaker W. Robert Blair's bill to shield House members with bulletproof glass and sent it to the governor's desk.

The $990,000 money measure was shorn of features that spawned weeks of acrimony in the spring budget-making session of the General Assembly.

As it stands, the bill would furnish funds for bolstering the ornate balconies in the House chamber, provide each member with a $335 chair and more legroom and pay for a bulletproof glass shield between the floor and its side aisles.

But Blair has dropped plans to move the press galleries to the balcony and enclose the overhead visitors seating areas in bulletproof glass.

As the measure moved through the Senate by a 30-16 vote — the minimum number needed for passage — many members castigated Blair.

The Park Forest Republican was charged, particularly by members of his own party, with mismanaging the House and using high-pressure tactics to win approval for the bill.

The assistant Republican leader, Terrell Clarke of Western Springs, declared that Blair "has put a hammerlock on this chamber."

Sen. Jack Walker, R-Lansing, the chief opponent of the bill, scoffed at suggestions that he was pursuing a personal vendetta against Blair.

"I know the speaker's office is a powerful one," Walker said. "But it has to be handled with fairness and integrity and I don't think it is."

Several senators alluded to a published report that an architect working on the "glass house" project had admitted in a conversation in a restaurant that he paid a kickback on a state project.

Sen. Jack Knepper, R-Elmhurst, sponsor of a measure to furnish the Senate with an electronic score-board-style vote-tallying machine, said that the bill apparently would not pass the House.

Two Arrested For DUI Thursday

Two men were arrested Thursday and ordered to appear in court to face charges of driving under the influence of liquor.

Edward N. Lonnergan, 36, of Murrayville, was ticketed by a city policeman about 6 p.m. near the intersection of South Main St. and Morton Ave.

The policeman, acting on a citizen's complaint, took Lonnergan into custody and he agreed to take a Breathalyzer test to determine the concentration of alcohol in his blood.

Lonnergan was released after posting his driver's license and a $500 cash bond to appear in court August 4.

John R. Hembrough, 50, of 1611 S. East St., was arrested by state troopers Thursday night at the intersection of Hardin and Morton avenues.

Hembrough was released from custody after posting his driver's license and a $500 cash bond to appear in court July 26.

Election Board Plan Defeated In House

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois House defeated Thursday legislation to set up a state board of elections.

Sponsored by Rep. Philip W. Collins, R-Chicago, the measure would have created a four-member board and given the governor the power to appoint a fifth tie-breaking member in the event of a deadlock.

But the lawmakers vowed to keep the issue alive in the closing hours of the session and meet the constitutional requirement that it fashion some type of election board.

In related actions, the legislature defeated bills that would: —Cut the number of state and local elections held annually to two, one in May and the other in November.

—Schedule a special primary election Aug. 2 to nominate candidates for judicial vacancies.

Chicago Democrats blasted down the Collins election board measure, with assistant minority leader Gerald W. Shea, D-Riverside, declaring that the lawmakers should "get some real election reform and stop fooling the people."

"That's right, Gerry," Collins snapped back. "Let's stop fooling the people."

The bill would have made the state board the "final authority" over local election boards across the state, including Chicago's.

A bill allowing political party committees to nominate candidates for the jobs in the November elections already has been sent to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie for signing into law.

The fireworks finale will be at 9:30 p.m. and is in charge of Jacksonville Firefighters.

The gates at the fair are free to pedestrians, although there will be a charge for automobiles that park on the grounds.

Admission for most events will be charged at the grandstand.

Cass Court Settles County Pay Dispute

VIRGINIA — On June 12, the Cass county board adopted a resolution establishing a new payroll system for county officers and their employees, as announced by Robert Patterson, chairman of the board. One of the principal features of this system is that it clearly defines the budgetary limitations established in each county office. The resolution directed the county clerk to issue warrants to the treasurer to place money in this payroll fund.

With the normal county payday on June 15th and that day having arrived, it was obvious that the county clerk, H. Gus Carls, was refusing to comply with the orders of the county board to issue the necessary county warrants, which prevented county employees from getting paid without further board action.

The county clerk apparently felt the payroll system was not legal and refused to comply with its order on those grounds. The county board held that the system was legal and that the county clerk had no discretion in carrying out its orders.

On June 15th, Cass State's Attorney Walter Farrand and Chairman Patterson filed a petition with the Cass County circuit court for a writ of mandamus to compel the county clerk to deliver warrants to the county treasurer as ordered by the county board.

On Wednesday, June 21, the hearing began and was continued to Friday, June 23. On Friday morning, the attorney for defendant Carls presented motions giving reasons why the mandamus action should be stricken and dismissed, and the state's attorney presented arguments as to why the writ should be issued. The court was recessed and returned with a denial of the motion by the defendant's attorney.

At this time, the attorney for the defendant privately requested a conference to determine what could be mutually agreed upon to reconcile this situation in the best interests of Cass county. This conference was immediately held in the judge's chambers and although Patterson favored the arrangement, he felt it improper to act without the approval of the county board. Upon joint motion by the attorneys, the circuit judge granted a continuance until the board could meet with all concerned parties present.

On June 27th, the county board met as a committee of the whole with State's Attorney Farrand and County Clerk Carls and his attorney present. The county clerk and his attorney agreed to withdraw all resistance to the operation of the central payroll fund and further guarantee future cooperation with the county board. In this

Greene Sheriff Nabs Two After Burglary

Two Jacksonville area young men were apprehended by Greene County Sheriff Frank Langley on Route 67 at the Roodhouse turn-off late Wednesday and later charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Clarence Miller, 27, of Route 1, Murrayville, and Richard A. Carroll, 24, of Route 4, Jacksonville, were taken to the Jersey county jail at Jerseyville for Greene county authorities under $10,000 bond on the two charges.

They were charged following a burglary at the FS Plant north of Greenfield about 10:30 p.m.

Sheriff Langley said the automatic alarm system activated a signal at his home and he drove immediately to the scene.

He said the car in which the two young men were riding pulled out of a gravel road just as he approached the FS plant and he followed the car to the junction, south, at the Roodhouse road.

The two were taken into custody without incident and jailed. They were arraigned in court Thursday afternoon. Carroll posted bond and was released. His hearing date was set for July 6.

Miller remains lodged in the Jersey county jail.
